Postal substation may open next week

By RICHARD GOLD

Although it is probably too late to ease the crunch of the Christmas rush, Canton residents should have a shorter distance to walk for mailing their letters, and the Plymouth Post Office should have an easier time of it in the near future.

On Tuesday, Plymouth Postmaster Art Mulligan recommended a bid be approved for Canton's contract postal sub-station.

That decision was forwarded to Joseph Loukotka, and an announcement is expected sometime early next week, awarding the bid to a business in Canton.

Loukotka, district director of customer services, said the station could be open by the end of next week. "As soon as we officially award the bid, we'll try and get the office open. It could be by the middle of next week," he said.

THE SECOND posting for bids closed Dec. 16, and Mulligan's recommendation was made and forwarded on Tuesday.

According to Loukotka, two bids were "in the area of acceptance."

Earlier bids, which were received by Nov. 13, had been turned down because they were too high.

Loukotka said the lowest of the first three bids, all made by businessmen in the Ford Road area, was in the $12,000 to $15,000 range.

Two were lower this time, explained Loukotka. Although he was not able to say how much lower, he added that several of the same businesses bid a second time.

The contract station, to be inside an already existing business, will take residents' mail and offer the full range of services of a normal post office with the exception that it won't distribute or receive mail directed to Canton residents.

Until the new zip code and Canton mailing address arrives, incoming mail will be distributed by the four post offices currently serving Canton. They are Plymouth, Wayne, Belleville and Ypsilanti.

ALTHOUGH MULLIGAN was pleased with the new bids, which he termed "substantially lower," he said he didn't expect the contract station to open before the first of the year. When it does open, however, he expects the load on the Plymouth office will be significantly reduced.

"There are 25,000 people in Canton and a good number will probably be going to the contract station because it will be closer to them."

Canton residents are awaiting a zip code designation from the post office, and that is expected sometime early next year.

"We've been told the zip code is coming in January or February," said Treasurer Carl Parsell, "but I think it will be more like March."

"At that time, all of our postal service will come from Plymouth. Belleville, Ypsilanti and Wayne will then no longer distribute our mail."

He added, "The contract station will take some of the load off of Plymouth, but when the zip code comes, all our sorting and mailing will be done there."

SOMETIME BEFORE then, Canton residents will have to decide on a name to go with the new zip code.

Although the township board can decide on a name like Canton Farms, or Plymouth Farms (two which have been mentioned), Parsell said the board would not act without finding out the feeling of the people.

"We don't need a formalized ballot to find out," the treasurer explained, "we could put coupons in the papers, or send out suggestions with the tax bills. The main thing is getting the feeling of the township if we are going to change the name."

Goodfellows make sure:

Christmas is for everyone

Canton Goodfellows will deliver Christmas packages to more than 60 township families on Dec. 23. Each will contain a turkey, the makings of a holiday dinner, fruit and nuts. In some cases there will be clothing certificates, but the toys will be scarce this year, according to Ken Witt, Goodfellows chairman.

PROCEEDS FROM the sale of special Goodfellows newspapers last weekend accounted for the major portion of funds in the annual project which promises no child shall go without a Christmas. Walker Elementary School students contributed some gifts to add to the packages and there were some private cash donations.

This is the 25th anniversary for the Canton Goodfellows organization. Before their own group was chartered, Canton old newsboys worked with the Plymouth organization.

RALPH BURCH, a Canton resident for 63 years, has seen many changes since they started out in 1950 when there were about 4,000 people living in the township.

"At first we stood on the street corners," said Burch, "then we sold door-to-door until 1972."

For 17 years the Goodfellows prepared their own editions, selling ads and writing their own material.

"Every business in the community bought an ad," Burch said. "The ads paid for the cost of printing with a little profit. We even did the mock-up—sometimes 36 pages."

"No one has the time to do that now," he added.

Burch was away when the township's own Goodfellows was formed, so he missed being listed as a charter member. But, he recalls selling papers in '50 and '51.

THE ONLY CHARTER member still out hawking Goodfellows editions last weekend was Ed Hauk, 83.

Witt was in charge of Saturday sales and Bill Grady scheduled Sunday newsboys.

The big push starts in September for Goodfellows. Now that the actual sale is over, everyone pitches in to help at the township fire hall.

Wives are on hand to help wrap packages and put the final finishing touches on perky bows. Some of the Goodfellows' wives aided in assigning recipients and sold their share of newspapers.

Oldtimers who hawked their papers in the large Canton shopping centers last weekend agreed it was hard to believe they started out with 4,000 residents—selling door-to-door.

State legislators listen to schools' money woes

By RICHARD GOLD

Plymouth Community School District administrators and board members sang the blues Monday.

The topic was money—or lack of it—and the audience included State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), and State Reps. Robert Geake (R-Northville), and Roy Smith (R-Ann Arbor)—all of whom had been invited to an informal workshop to clarify the effects of the single business tax, the loss of revenue from the business inventory tax, and the future of state aid to the schools.

Plymouth schools have already lost $365,000 in state aid this year, and some administrators fear further cuts are forthcoming.

Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent of business, said that unless further cuts are made from an already trimmed budget, the school system's entire net worth (fund equity) of more than $300,000 could be wiped out.

Supt. John M. Hoben said that growth in the district, inflation, and the opening of four new buildings next year would push costs past expected income for the next fiscal year.

The picture painted by the legislature was bleak—no real answers were provided—and little was said to cheer either the board members or administration.

"THE PROBLEM is that the tax structure is rotten to its foundation," explained Representative Smith. "One house is voting to spend and the other is voting to save. We increase services with one hand and then don't provide the wherewithall with the other."

"The answer is to send a bill through with the tax dollars to go with it. We should say that's all we can spend on that item and pass it at the same time. That would be putting the shoe on the right foot."

Sen. Pursell echoed Smith's sentiments. "People who want improved services don't say how to pay for it. Legislators who voted for special education increases never passed a tax increase."

"Some legislators in Lansing have a great record for improving school programs—but if you look at their records, you'll find they never voted for any tax increases."

Pursell added, however, that most of the problem was not the integrity of the Legislature, but that the economy had gone sour and cuts had to be made.

The prospects for next year, he indicated, might be even worse because several balancing methods used in Lansing were one-shot deals like increasing the length of the current fiscal year to October and taking the balance of the uninsured motorist fund to use this year.

ADMINISTRATORS voiced complaints, in particular, over budgeting problems, and an ever increasing operating deficit caused in part by state aid cuts.

Supt. John M. Hoben complained about the poor timing of the most recent cut, which cost Plymouth schools $270,000. "Coming this late in the year, it has the same effect of cutting us half a million dollars, because we only have half the time to make it up."

Hoben and trustee Marcia Borowski added that the lateness of this year's cuts make it harder to budget in advance for the next fiscal year because the same thing may happen again.

The schools have been promised state aid increases for fiscal year 1976-77 that would increase the total per pupil dollars to 106 per cent of

Make holidays fire-free

The season for fun and happiness is approaching but with it there is the threat of trouble.

Each year there are the sad stories of persons injured or worse in fires during the holidays.

To help prevent a tragedy, local fire chiefs have issued a list of "Holiday Safety Do's and Don'ts."

PLYMOUTH FIRE Chief George Schoenneman said Underwriters Laboratories Inc., a non-profit organization which tests electric items for public safety along with the fire departments each year, offers a few tips to help make the holiday safe, not sorry.

"When purchasing a Christmas tree, buy a firm, fresh tree, Schoenneman advises. 'Store it in a cool place with the base of the tree in water until ready to be decorated.'"

Plymouth Township Fire Chief James Gignac suggests that when buying an artificial tree be sure to look for the UL (Underwriters Laboratories) label which tell you it is classified as flame resistant.

"Remember to check the decorative lighting strings for frayed wires, broken cords, and loose sockets," Gignac urges.

"These conditions pose potential electrical hazards. Use only light strings that bear a UL label."

CHIEF MEL PAULUN of Canton Township advises that, when trimming the tree, avoid using candles or other decorations that may ignite easily.

"Keep the tree away from the fireplace, radiator, and the television set, any source of heat may cause the tree to become dry, thus creating a fire hazard," Paulun said.

The fire chiefs warn to be certain not to overload the electrical circuits in the home.

"The wires that carry more current than they can handle may overheat and cause a fire. Read the manufacturer's instructions on lighting strings carefully and do not use more than the recommended number of lights in one circuit," they said.

Schoenneman said that while Christmas decorations are beautiful and very pleasant to look at, "when you leave your home or retire for the night, be certain to turn off the light sets, colored spot lights or other decorations."

GIGNAC ADVISES that "When purchasing gifts for the persons your care about, take time out to check for the UL label."

"Gifts of electric food blenders, hair dryers, hot combs, and the like are tested for safety by Underwriters Laboratories. Show that you care, check for the UL label."

Paulun added: "Be safe and happy this Christmas season. When preparing for the holidays, take the extra steps to show you care."

New businesses to get signs

Signs may once again begin to dot the landscape of Canton Township in the near future—but this time they will be township owned signs—not builders'.

Setting the tone for better rapport with the business community, township board members unanimously approved a program suggested by Supervisor Robert Greenstein and Treasurer Carl Parsell that will allow new merchants to post signs on their property indicating the businesses will be arriving in Canton.

The uniform four by eight foot signs will have a slogan on them saying "Canton is growing" and a 2½ by 4 foot overlay will have the name of the business on it.

The signs will be erected by the township, for free, after the builder is granted site plan approval by the planning commission and township officials are assured that construction is soon to begin.

"WE WANT to provide the businessman with some sort of advertising during construction and before the grand opening of his building," explained Greenstein.

"Of course we'll have to have some sort of assurance in advance of erecting the sign that it won't sit there for six or seven years before they start work," he added.

Cost of the signs, which are reusable, is $36 apiece, and the township will foot the bill for construction and installation of them. Each overlay will cost $18.

"I think these signs will go to show people that business is here and these are aren't just vacant lots scattered throughout the township," said Greenstein. "A driver going through the township will get the idea of what's going on here, and might then want to locate here."

"They'll also tell business people that the township is glad that they are here, and that should generate the cooperation and interest of builders."

THE SIGNS, to be used only for commercial and industrial developments in Canton, would be exempt from the township sign ordinance because they are township owned.

"We'll have complete control of them," explained Greenstein. "We can take them down anytime we want to."

Two signs have already been ordered, and Greenstein said he expects quite a few more. "I think these signs will help to attract non-residential tax-base," the supervisor said.

Bart Berg, chamber of commerce president, was in attendance when the motion was passed last week and he remarked, "I'm amazed. I do believe this is a tremendous step by the board. The chamber thanks you and so do I."

Although the idea did not directly grow out of a series of breakfast meetings with the chamber, Greenstein said the breakfasts made him aware of the need for better communication with the chamber.

"We have never taken an anti-business stand and I think that is an unjustified fear, although some chamber members did express that to us."

"The chamber meetings helped us understand their concerns, and now we are following through. We think this move will make for a more attractive relationship with businessmen in the township."

Accused kidnapper wants child custody

The father arrested in Plymouth and charged with kidnapping his son from the Dunning-Hough Memorial Library on Halloween is continuing his efforts to gain legal custody of the child.

Although the kidnapping charge still remains against James Lee Hart, the Wayne County Circuit Court has temporarily set aside hearings on the kidnapping charge to hear evidence on who has legal custody of the child.

Hart's defense is he didn't kidnap his son because his grandfather had temporary custody and Hart had petitioned the Wayne Circuit Court for custody.

Hart and his former wife, Gloria of Plymouth, were divorced in August 1972. In July 1975, the Juvenile Court of Henry County, Tenn., awarded temporary custody to the boy's grandfather, Robert L. Hart. On July 11, 1975, the father filed a formal petition for custody in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Circuit Judge Joseph Rashid is conducting hearings on the custody petition as well as handling the kidnapping charge. In the petition, Hart stated he is fearful of his son's welfare and would like visitation rights. He asked the court, in the July 1975 petition, to grant him custody of the child.

Hart, through his attorney, also petitioned the Wayne Circuit Court last July to recognize the Tennessee custody ruling and decide that the boy should remain in Tennessee.

Hart told the Observer & Eccentric he doesn't believe he kidnapped his son because the courts had not determined that the mother had legal custody. He said he took the child because of concerns for the boy's welfare and safety.

10 days of hockey, fun

Skaters home from Sweden

Members of the Plymouth Hockey Association teams travelling in Sweden jammed more than two weeks' worth of sight-seeing into just 10 days.

They played five games and numerous practices, visited the King and had a chance to see the crown jewels.

Hockey-wise, it wasn't too bad a week for the Plymouth and Canton players with the Bantams' leaving with a 3-2 mark and the Midgets with a 2-2-1 record.

Quite an experience for the boys whose ages range from 13-14 for the Bantams and 15-16 for the Midgets.

UPON ARRIVING in Sweden, the boys were assigned to various host families to unpack, freshen up, eat, visit and get some much needed rest after the long flight.

They ran into some difficulty with host families who were unable to speak English, but soon learned to communicate nevertheless and got along fine. "They couldn't have treated me better," remarked one player.

One of the first things the players noticed was the lack of sunlight. The weather wasn't too good the first few days and the boys discovered that in Sweden in early December the sun rises at 8 a.m. and sets at 3 p.m.

On that first Saturday—Nov. 29—the two Plymouth teams went to Stockholm for some touring and were quite impressed with the sights: A crowded city with very tall buildings, very close together, very old but very beautiful. Memories of home were seen when the boys spotted McDonalds and Daly's restaurants.

THE FIRST PRACTICE was Sunday, Nov. 30, and they played their first games that afternoon against Vasterhaninge.

The second opponent was the team from Nynashamn. By the end of this game, the Plymouth players had a good taste for Swedish-brand hockey and found their counterparts were very physical, good skaters and passers.

Tuesday night, Dec. 2, the boys visited a discoteque—a stop of particular interest for the older Midget players who reportedly found the Swedish girls to be quite attractive and a lot of fun. Maybe a bit too attractive because the next day the Midgets lost their first game of the trip, 7-5.

After that loss, the Midget team went sight-seeing and lost two of its members who were found in time to watch a game on the last night between two of Sweden's best amateur teams in a stadium the size of Olympia.

Practice the afternoon of Dec. 5 was cancelled for the Midgets because of too many injuries. During the day the hockey players visited the King's Palace, saw the crown jewels, and had an audience with His Royal Highness Carl XVI Gustaf.

At game-time, the Midgets were still short-handed from injuries and accepted some Swedish players to fill out the roster. With the gleam of jewels still in their eyes, the awesomeness of His Majesty, and strange players on the line, the Plymouth team took an 11-2 beating. "Fantastic hockey players," remembers Kevin Murphy. "They blew us right off the ice."

The graciousness of his hosts is a memory Kevin will carry for some time. "The people of Sweden treated us great, helped us through all difficulties and went out of their way to show us around and make sure we are were comfortable.

"I just hope the Swedish boys who visit our country next year are taken care of as well as we were. I cannot stress how super the people were. It's going to be hard to treat them as well as they treated us, but I look forward to trying."

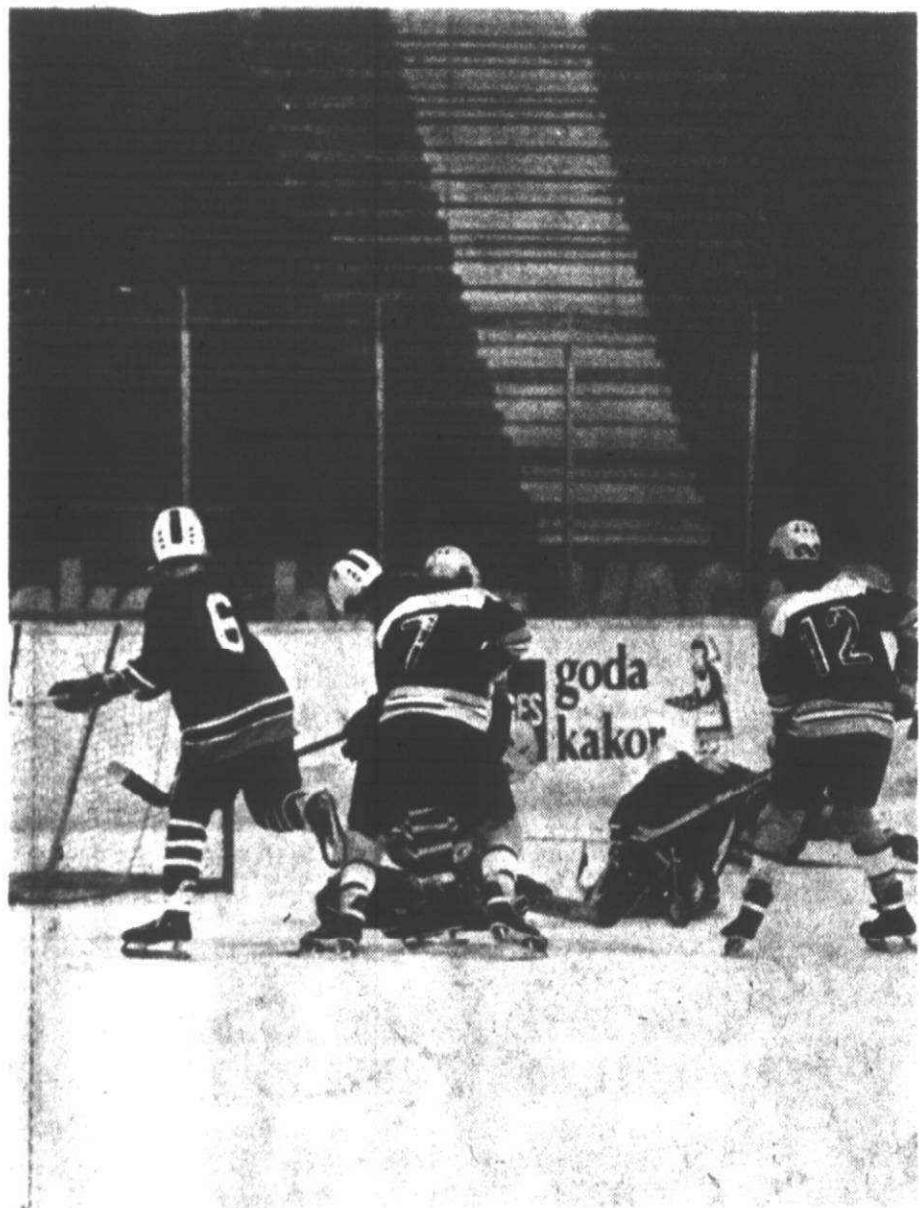

Next year, two Swedish teams will visit Plymouth for a series of games and join their counterparts here in observance of America's bicentennial year.

This is the scene around the dining table at one of the host families during the 10-day visit to Sweden by members of the Plymouth Hockey Association.

While sight-seeing, Plymouth-Canton hockey players saw a familiar sight in this store's hockey equipment display window with items for National Hockey League clubs—the Islanders, Rangers, Maple Leafs, Sabers and Flyers.

Goalie and defensemen scramble to the ice as a shot in front of the goal poses a real threat of a score.

The King of Sweden is introduced to coaches and players from Plymouth and Canton. The player at the right gets a quick photo of his majesty before it's his chance to shake hands.

Dyer reappointed by W-W board

"I'm very, very well paid," said Dr. Timothy Dyer, Wayne-Westland Superintendent of Schools after the W-W School Board approved his new three-year contract by a vote of six to one.

"I am appreciative of your generosity."

The board's generosity amounted to an average salary increase to Dyer of 6.3 per cent for each of the next three years.

Dyer currently earns $35,000; he will receive increments that will place him at $37,000, $39,000 and $41,000 over the next three years.

By comparison, Garden City School Supt. Bracken Snow receives $35,500; Livonia School Supt. George Garver receives $45,000.

Dyer's contract runs from July 1, 1975, to July 1, 1978; he will be paid retroactively for the period already expired, so that, actually, he has about 2½ years left.

Dyer, 37, became W-W superintendent three years ago; a Wayne resident, Dyer previously had been a W-W teacher and principal during a 15-year span. He arrived in the district in 1960.

Several board members offered praise of Dyer. "We've got a good buy," said Trustee Vincent Petitpren. "The man's done a good job. He's the kind of man you can talk with, disagree with, and then work together with afterward. We're fortunate to have a man like Dyer."

But Trustee William White, who had cast the lone vote against the salary increase, objected to the "circular effect" of consistently providing salary increases.

"There seems to be a spiral effect: first you raise one, then you raise the other," said White. "My concern is where public education is going."

Legislators listen

this year's figure or $1,250 dollars per student.

Borowski said, "How do we know you won't pull the same thing on us next year? We lost three quarters of a per cent two years ago, more than $100,000 last year and more than $300,000 this year. That's not a very strong track record."

Borowski, a strong advocate of increasing taxes to provide stronger educational programs, explained her position.

"Putting money into education is the best use. It costs less now to solve problems and pay for better education than to pay later for jail, police, courts or welfare."

"Education can solve all our problems, and I, for one, am willing to pay now."

"Presently, we have 15 children in our learning disability classrooms thanks to a deviance we've been granted and we're finding more kids all the time. What happens when we get to 16, 17 and 18—where do they go?"

"We don't want them to be misfits eight years from now. It costs $5,000 a year to keep someone in jail, but only $1,200 now to see they get the proper education."

Trustee Geroge Lawton responded that increases in revenue might not go into programs, but rather, salaries.

"I'm not sure that extra money will improve education unless the state says where the money will go."

BOARD MEMBERS and administrators also found fault with next year's state aid program because it limits a school district's ability to generate its own income without losing state aid.

As it stands now, before the Plymouth School District could net any additional extra money, it would have to levy an additional 8.9 mills. The first 8.8 mills of local money would merely replace state aid.

According to current projections, Hoben said next year's proposed increase of 11 per cent in revenue won't cover the costs of the district and additional money would be necessary.

Lawton asked if there was any chance the arrangement would be changed so that districts wouldn't be penalized by raising money at the local level.

Plymouth's bloc grant could double in 1976

The City of Plymouth has received word that its federal grant funds under the Community Development Act could double next year from $32,000 to $64,000.

Although the city hasn't actually received its 1975 bloc grant funds yet, it plans to use the grant for a code enforcement program.

The city has until July, 1976, to come up with a specific proposal for next year's funding, explains City

Session four on Jan. 27 will feature films with subject of the program being "The Other Guy." Each of the four sessions begin at 8 p.m.

The series is open to the public and anyone curious about alcohol and its effects on the mind and body is welcome. Questions will be answered concerning available treatment facilities in this area.

18 receive EMU degrees

Eighteen residents from the Plymouth-Canton community recently received degrees from Eastern Michigan University at its 27th winter commencement.

They are: Jacqueline Boye of Evergreen, BS; Christina Cline of Robinwood, BS; Ronald Dziegieleski of Sumnerland, BBA; Diane Harry of Warren Road, BS; Ray Henderson of Northville Forest Dr., BBE; William Hill of Marguerite, BA; Robin Horton of Eaton Apartments, BBA; Jill Jackson of Gyde Road, BS; John Karwoski of Whitman Avenue, BBA.

And: Cynthia Kolotila of Five Mile, BS; Kenneth Legowsky of Hartsough, BBA; Bradley Maxey of Brook Park, BBA; John Mitchell of Fairview Drive, BS; Agnes Ohno of McClumpha, BS; Colleen Presley of Plymouth Road, BS; Donald Rice of Penniman, BS; Mary Stacey of Beacon Hill, BS; and, Diane Williams of Brookline, BS.

Manager Fred Yockey, although the money is expected to be spent for housing-related programs.

Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships are among a group of municipalities which submitted Community Development applications through the Wayne County Office of Program Development and Coordination.

Under this arrangement the county makes a single application to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for the participating communities and then redistributes the funds back according to the needs and priorities of the individual programs.

The county has been told by HUD that its 1976 entitlement will double. Depending on the total population of the participating communities, the county's grant could reach $2 million.

The city will not make an actual commitment for the 1976 projects until it later signs an agreement to implement a specific program.

NATURAL RESOURCES COMMISSION ACTION (Under authority of Act 230, P.A. 1925, as amended)

BOBCAT HUNTING REGULATIONS FOR 1976

The Natural Resources Commission, at its meeting on June 13, 1975, under the authority of Act 230, P.A. 1925, as amended, in regards to bobcats declared no open season in Zone 3, abridged the open and required a permit to hunt in Zone 2 and on Bois Blanc Island of Zone 1. The seasons and regulations shall be as follows:

- Zone 1: No closed season, except on Bois Blanc Island where the season and regulations shall coincide with those of Zone 2.
- Zone 2: January 1 through February 29, in Emmet, Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Otsego, Montmorency, and Alpena counties. Hunting by permit only.
- Zone 3: No open season.

Application Procedure

A free permit is required of all persons hunting bobcats in Zone 2. Applications must be made in person or by mail as follows:

1. Applicants may appear in person at the Gaylord District Headquarters or at the Atlanta, Indian River, or Millersburg field offices of the Department of Natural Resources. Such application must be made during regular working hours. No application is to be made prior to December 1, 1975.

2. Application by mail must be made individually on a government postal card. The applicant shall address the card to himself, typing or printing his name and address on the postage side of the card. The applicant shall then mail the card in an envelope addressed to: Bobcat Permit, P. O. Box 576, Department of Natural Resources, Gaylord, Michigan 49735. Applications must be postmarked no earlier than December 1, 1975.

Permits

There is no limit to the number of permits that will be issued. There will be no charge for the permit. The permit authorizes the bearer to hunt during the entire two-month season in the designated open areas.

Hunting

No person shall hunt under authority of his permit unless he has signed it in ink and carries it on his person along with his 1975 small game or sportsman's license, and unless he properly wears the back tag provided with his license.

Commission of the State of Michigan

Publish: December 18, 26, 1975, January 2, 1976

cat" banks which sprang up in Michigan after the state legislature passed "An Act to Organize and Regulate Banking Associations" on March 15, 1837. "Wild cat" was the term applied to banks which issued banknotes with little or no capital to back them.

THE WAYNE COUNTY Bank of Plymouth was organized here on Dec. 2, 1837. That was the year Henry Holbrook laid out and recorded the first plat in what later became the village.

The bank's president was Jonathan O. Davis, and the cashier was Ben F. Hall. The bank was said to be capitalized at $100,000 but, like other wildcat "associations," it was backed only by stockholders' checks which were never presented, acknowledged or paid.

Michigan's banking act of 1837 was in keeping with the spirit of Jacksonian democracy which encouraged "free banking." Free banking was a practice begun by the New York State legislature, and imported by other states, as a reaction to the traditional practice of granting charters of incorporation only by special legislative act.

Speculators and land settlers wanted more banks. They denounced "the monopolistic and un-American privileges involved in special legislative acts." Like any other business, they contended, banking should be free for anyone to undertake without having to obtain legislative permission. Free banking did produce some good banks, but in Michigan, as well as in Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois, the results were outrageously bad.

Michigan's banking law did have a provision concerning paid-in capital, but it was never strictly enforced. Instead of paying in coined money, as stipulated, stockholders got by with paper promises.

In addition, because of the shortage of coins brought on by Andrew Jackson's 1836 order to receivers to accept only gold or silver in payment for public land, the Michigan law relieved bankers from the requirement of paying out coin for notes. As a result of all of this, the handsome banknotes which wildcat banks printed and handed out in enormous quantities had little value.

HISTORIAN Henry M. Utley, a native of Plymouth, was a year old when the Wayne County Bank of Plymouth was formed.

Forty-seven years later, in an article he wrote for the "Michigan Pioneer and Historical Collection," Utley told of the duplicity which took place in connection with the operation of some of the wildcat ("tom cat" or "red dog") banks.

"While some bona fide banks were established," Utley wrote, "it was soon found that the law was taken advantage of by dishonest men to practice the grossest frauds and swindles. The law practically permitted these frauds, and the officers of the state, though striving honestly to do their duty, were powerless to prevent them."

"Banks were established in the most inaccessible places, which it wasn't likely the holder of bills could ever find, and hence the bank wouldn't be asked to redeem the bills. The law required a certain amount of specie to be kept in the vaults of the bank but this provision was evaded. The same specie served for exhibition for a dozen banks, at various intervals."

On Jan. 18, 1839, the state's banking commissioners reported that the law was ineffective in punishing swindlers and recommended that the Legislature act to amend it. The state Legislature promptly suspended the act. The Bank of Plymouth, along with other wildcat banks, was closed because it was unable to meet the amended banking requirements.

IN JANUARY, 1844, the Michigan Supreme Court declared the law which fostered the wildcat banks to be unconstitutional.

The court's action enabled even the most flagrant swindlers of the wildcat era to go scot-free. The personal liability of the directors and stockholders of the wildcat banks was erased and all hope which holders of the worthless banknotes had of realizing anything on them evaporated.

"Children used the bills to play with," wrote Utley, "and in the rural districts, where paper-hangings were scarce, people used them to paper their rooms. It is hard to understand how men of ordinary wisdom and prudence were led into this wild scheme of banking."

AFTER ITS wildcat bank closed, Plymouth got along without a bank for 33 years.

Then, on Nov. 18, 1871, the community's second financial establishment, the First National Bank, was organized. Its president was Ebenezer J. Peniman, then 67-years-old. He served in the position for 14 years.

The cashier was C. H. Bennett, whose nephew later became president of the Daisy Manufacturing Company. Among the owners of the bank's $50,000 capital stock was Michael Conner, owner of the hardware store and president of the village for several terms.

The second president of the First National Bank was 60-year-old George Starkweather, who succeeded Peniman in 1886.

By 1889, the bank had a surplus of $14,000, undivided profits of $8,000, average deposits of $75,000, and loans of about $90,000 at seven per cent interest. The bank paid a semi-annual dividend of five per cent. It was permitted to issue its own currency. A $1 bill issued by it is in the Plymouth Historical Museum.

Play the guessing game with personalized plates

By CINDY FRANK

If you have ever wondered at the meaning hidden behind those personalized license plates seen so often lately on Michigan roads—the Volkswagen plate that reads "LEGS" or the Torino plate screaming "BIDY" in bi-centennial red, white and blue on the bumper—then you're ready to play the People-Plate Association Game.

There are no rules or prizes in the game, but it passes time, and according to the five-pound computerized list of personalized plates from the Michigan Secretary of State's office, there are more than 14,000 of the "vanity" plates running around our highways. They aren't difficult to find.

A few examples from the Observer & Eccentric readership area will give you the idea. You can take it from there.

ASPEN on a Bloomfield Hills car is an easy one. The driver might be an avid Colorado skier who looks upon snow as a gift from heaven. He probably keeps his snow tires on all year long and keeps his skis and poles by the doorway. Maybe it's a Greyhound bus driver from Bloomfield Hills with DOGBUS on his plates. MUSH could be a transplanted Eskimo now living in Bloomfield Hills.

In Rochester there may be a suave, dark, Franco-Nero type who loves the ladies and has BEAU on his personalized plates. In that city there may also be an angry type with a short temper who hates driving in the city. He has GRRRR on his plates.

Rochester also boasts a plate reading I DID IT. Now that could mean almost anything from someone who has quit smoking to . . . RHINO could be a big game hunter from Rochester who makes yearly trips to Africa in search of the wild beast (or maybe a jovial drinker who has an inordinate affection for Rhine wine).

Southfield, with lots of the personalized plates, is good territory for the People-Plate game. BE THIN is presumably a weight-watcher (while FATSO from Troy presumably isn't). Is there a lonely but attractive Southfield resident who affectionately proclaims HUG ME on her license plates?

SALAMI may be a Southfield delicatessen owner. A woman with 12 children may have had the STORK visit her Southfield home so many times that she finally put it on her plates. IC2020 may not look like a personalized plate at first glance, but if you could see that well, maybe you could see the significance. Maybe the plates belong to an optometrist.

A possible Birmingham pilot has CESSNA on his plates. Does West Bloomfield have an exterminator with DDT on his license plates?

COORS on a Troy car is another easy one—another person who makes regular trips to Colorado, but in this case for beer and not snow.

D-DAY from Livonia and FIRE-1 from Plymouth are World War II veterans perhaps, the former a husky Marine and the latter a push-button submariner. Livonia also has a very friendly driver, with the message HI 2 U on his plates.

Farmington may have an avid sailor with DINGHY on his car. EDELS may belong to a gentleman who is trying to cling to old cars and customs. "They just don't make cars like they used to," he might say.

An energy-conscious person from Farmington Hills may have had SAV GAS put on his plates. The local watch repairman may be the one with TICTOC on his car.

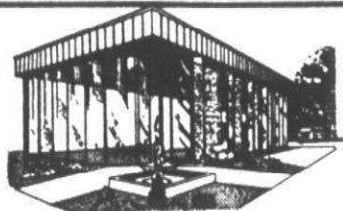

The Westland resident with HAHAHA must be a real rib-tickling, life-of-the-party type. Or maybe his car is bigger than yours. OINK in Westland may be a compulsive eater who may take over BE THIN next time. Or could he be the ultimate chauvinist? An eternal pessimist drives the car with the plates that ask WHY ME.

There seem to be a few patriots in Garden City, one with MY USA on his personalized plates. The other is a University of Michigan football fan with ON BLUE on his plates.

Redford has a golfer who tries each and every year to PAR 4, just as his plates proclaim.

And in the parking lot of the Observer & Eccentric was a car with NECKER on it. Who could that belong to?

The people who have been created to fit the license plates in this article are all fictitious. Any resemblance to the actual owners is purely coincidental or a good guess. It's all in the game.

Esch is holdout on tax cut

Suburban congressmen gave 5-1 support as the House last week gave 257-168 approval to a tax cut-reform bill without the spending lid that President Ford wanted.

The dissenter was Rep. Marvin Esch (R-Ann Arbor), who charged the bill was "fooling the public."

Backers included James O'Hara (D-Utica), whose 12th District includes part of the Rochester community; William D. Ford (D-Taylor), whose 15th District covers Garden City, Westland and Canton; William Brodhead (D-Detroit), whose 17th District includes Redford, Southfield and Farmington; James Blanchard (D-Pleasant Ridge), whose 18th District has most of Troy; and William Broomfield (R-Birmingham), whose 19th District includes western Rochester, West Bloomfield and the villages near Birmingham.

"WE DEFINITELY need to continue this tax cut in 1976 to stimulate purchasing power and production," said O'Hara.

"I don't think the administration's position makes any sense economically. Putting on a spending ceiling violates any stimulus of a tax cut."

O'Hara said that while the bill took too few steps at tax reform, it included enough reform to be worthwhile. He cited "removal of abuses on accelerated depreciation on real estate, farm operations and oil and gas wells—a limit on their artificial losses."

"Minimum tax provisions were tightened for persons with large amounts of tax exempt income," O'Hara added.

COUNTERED ESCH: "We have to tie any tax decrease into some kind of balancing of the budget. In 1967-8 we set a ceiling on spending."

"Before the bill goes to the president's desk, we will have some kind of ceiling," he predicted. "It's time to stop fooling the public. For too long, we've suggested we're giving 'em something when all we're giving them is more inflation."

Congress must act this month or else some $13 billion in individuals' tax cuts and some business tax cuts will expire. The reform measures, added by liberals as amendments, will bring an estimated $1.3 billion into the Treasury.

If the tax cuts aren't extended, the Treasury would pick up $15.5 billion in unexpected revenue.

The bill goes to the Senate, where the Taxation Committee was scheduled to begin hearings this week.

NYC aid splits '76 hopefuls

Aid to New York City may emerge as an issue in Michigan's 1976 U.S. Senate race because two leading contenders representing the suburbs went in opposite directions as the House narrowly passed an aid bill last week.

Republican Marvin Esch, whose 2nd District includes Livonia and Plymouth, and Democrat James O'Hara, whose 12th District stretches to Rochester-Avon, had sharply opposing views.

Esch voted against the bill, as did fellow Republican William Broomfield of Birmingham. Supporting it in the 213-203 vote were O'Hara and Democrats William D. Ford of Taylor, William Brodhead of Detroit and James Blanchard of Pleasant Ridge.

O'HARA, A TOP contender in the Democratic primary for the Senate, said "the bill that finally emerged as reasonable. It's a cash flow loan. New York will have to pay it back annually."

"I think it's fair in light of the efforts New York city and state have made to set their financial house in order."

But Esch, almost a shoo-in for the GOP Senate nomination, said, "I don't think Michigan citizens should be involved in helping New York City until they make more effective changes in their finances."

"New York provides free college tuition for its students. Our students attending the University of Michigan, Oakland University, Schoolcraft College and Oakland Community College all pay tuition," said Esch, whose 2nd District, which covers Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and Monroe, is reported to have the highest population of college students in the U.S.

Esch said Michigianians resent "abuses" in New York's pension system and that city's expenditures of $1,260 per person compared to $250 or $260 for the average American city.

THE BILL would make $2.3 billion in loans available to New York for 30 months to keep the nation's largest city from defaulting on its debts.

Yule traditions pre-date Christ

The 21st of December is the winter solstice. The days stop growing shorter and begin to lengthen. Since the beginning of time, this has been cause for celebration. Feasts were prepared, and huge fires were lighted. Trees were trimmed with fruits, candies, candles and glistening ornaments. Dec. 25 was the date when the early Romans celebrated this pagan festival. Sometime in the first half of the fourth century, more than 300 years after the birth of Christ, Pope Julius I sanctioned that date as Jesus' birthday. It was quite natural that many Yuletide customs were carried into Christianity by the newly converted pagans. In time, the celebration of Christmas and the Yuletide celebration merged into one. Today we find pagan Yule trees in Christian churches side by side with the manger of the nativity scene. Each ethnic group has its own customs associated with this season. And each individual family has established its own Christmas traditions. I'd like to share two of mine with you.

Pine Cones for Burning
Each year, we prepare pine cones in the following manner to give as gifts to our friends who have fireplaces. Soak each pine cone for three or four days in one of the following solutions:
For yellow flames—dissolve 1/4 pound of common table salt in one quart of water.
For green flames—dissolve 1/4 pound of borax in one quart of water.
For red flames—dissolve 1/4 pound strontium nitrate in one quart of water.
For purple flames—dissolve 1/2 pound of lithium chloride in one quart of water.
For blue flames—dissolve 1/4 pound copper sulphate in one quart of water.
Remove the pine cones and place them on a newspaper for several hours until thoroughly dry. These will burn with brilliantly colored flames and the fragrant odor of pine.

Fragrant Pomander Balls
With a heavy darning needle, puncture holes in the skin of an orange. Insert a clove in each hole. The cloves should be placed so that the prongs just touch each other and the whole orange is covered.

The clove-studded orange should now be rolled in the rolling mixture. The mixture can be whatever combination of exotic spices you find agreeable (cinnamon, cardamon, sandalwood, etc.) but it should contain some powdered orris to preserve the scent.
Allow the orange to remain in the spice mixture for several days. Roll it back and forth every now and then.
With a small brush, dust the rolling mixture from the tops of the cloves and tie a red ribbon around the orange.
As the orange ages, it will become dry and fairly shriveled. It will still look attractive, though, because the round shape will be preserved by the cloves. This pomander can be presented as a gift, or hung in your room or closet to scent the air with its sweet smell.

You may write Gundella at: Box 434, Garden City, Mich. 48135. For a personal reply, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Power scholar is named

Thomas J. Taylor, a senior at the University of Michigan, has been awarded a two-year Power Exchange Scholarship to study at Magdalene College in Cambridge, England.
Taylor hopes to read for a B.A. in social and political sciences at Cambridge, which he will enter in October.
Power Exchange Scholarships were established in 1968 by the Power Foundation of Ann Arbor. Eugene B. Power, head of the foundation, is an honorary fellow of Magdalene College and a former regent of U-M. He is the father of Observer & Eccentric co-publisher, Philip Power.
Each year one American graduate of U-M and one British graduate of Magdalene College are selected to attend the other institution. As each scholarship is for two years, at any given time two recipients from each university hold the awards.

Retirees have a lot to learn

More and more retirees are going to college this winter, taking both practical subjects, such as home safety and health, and personal enrichment courses ranging from bicentennial history to "an ethnic Christmas."

Educational opportunities for the elderly are increasing through the efforts of four local community colleges and the Institute of Gerontology, a joint unit of The University of Michigan and Wayne State University.

Representatives from Schoolcraft, Wayne County, Henry Ford and Highland Park community colleges formed a "Consortium on Aging" last year to study ways in which they could meet the educational needs of older citizens.

"THEY FELT a community college should serve all age groups, not just the 18 to 22-year-olds," explained U-M Prof. Carl Brahce, a staff member of the Institute. He developed the Post-retirement Education plan with the four community colleges and now serves as the project's director. It is one of only 11 such projects funded by the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) throughout the country.

"We began by assessing the needs of our target population," Brahce said. "Interestingly, Wayne County contains one-third, or about 360,000, of the entire Michigan population aged 60 and older.

"This includes many ethnic groups and a large proportion whose income is below poverty level. More than half have less than an eighth grade education."

THE PROJECT'S associate directors, Laura Hardy and Marvie Hackney, surveyed Wayne County's libraries, social agencies and cultural organizations. "While non-credit educational opportunities abound, few are geared to the learning interests of the aged," Brahce said, "and even fewer make provision for the learning style of the aged."

Finally, the project staff surveyed older people to learn which kinds of courses they would be interested in. In response, the community colleges first focused on "coping needs," developing courses in such areas as home nursing skills, defensive driving, personal budgeting and "fitness after fifty." To these were added the personal enrichment courses, ranging from world affairs to storytelling, from music appreciation to creative living alone.

"Offering the courses was not the final step," Brahce noted. "We still had to motivate older people to participate. Many believe that education is only the province of young people. They doubt their ability to develop new interests and skills."

THAT WAS why the project hired Maud Piggot of Plymouth, a community liaison worker with the project at Schoolcraft. A former nurse and "almost" a great-grandmother, she helped organize two highly successful history courses at Livonia's University Convalescent Home.

"The students crowd into the room in wheelchairs and walkers, and I help the teacher distribute course materials and answer questions. The old people thank us profusely. They look forward to the class so much."

Mrs. Piggot has discussed the project before several community groups. "I just talk up a storm," she said. "I tell people there's more to do after you reach my age than turn on the TV set. You never stop learning."

DRAWING UPON its own faculty and other resources, each of the four community colleges has developed a variety of educational options for older citizens, both on and off campus.

Wayne County Community College offers all of its accredited courses to senior citizens tuition-free, and has begun such courses as "Oral History" for the Latino elderly and "Lifestyles in Aging."

Henry Ford Community College's special courses for the elderly include "Legal Affairs in Later Life." Tuition is free to persons over age 60 through a special grant from the Dearborn Board of Education.

Highland Park Community College is offering mini-courses in such subjects as "Safety and Health" and "Community Resources." A project for using older residents as tutors is in the planning stages.

Schoolcraft College initiated START (Study After Retirement) which enables older adults to attend all classes without tuition or credit where space is available. Schoolcraft's programs include special workshops on "Death and Dying" and "Living with Loss."

OTHER POTENTIAL programs being considered are: library services for the home-bound; senior player groups involving retired drama teachers and theater personages; and one-day workshops on such topics as "income producing ideas," "neighbor-helping," and inter-generation enrichment, with children and grandchildren. HEW funding is also being used to conduct workshops on techniques for teaching older adults.

"There are substantial differences among the populations each of the four community colleges serve," Brahce pointed out. "For example, the number of residents over age 60 ranges from 5,478 in Highland Park to 319,988 in the Wayne County Community College District.

"The size of the black population each serves ranges from less than one per cent in Dearborn to more than 55 per cent in Highland Park."

In HEW's view, these differences are an asset. The Wayne County project will be used as a model for post retirement education programs by equally dissimilar community colleges throughout the country.

editorial opinion

Use of team is a money-saver for school district

The problem-solving process clicked neatly recently when approval was given to install the energy-saving monitoring system on a pilot basis in Plymouth Salem High School.

The monitor is a computer center located in Farmington Hills which controls temperature settings at 16 locations in Salem High, turns on and off some 35 pieces of equipment, and maintains surveillance of heating-cooling equipment for possible breakdown.

An alert administrator—Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business—happened to see the monitoring system on display and realized what it could do for Plymouth Community School District.

AN ENERGY conservation committee already had been formed, and Hoedel asked this group to consider the idea. Experts on the committee studied the system, appreciated its potential, and offered their whole-hearted endorsement.

After hearing a lengthy presentation on how the system works, how much money could be saved, and how the installation could be financed, the board awarded a five-year contract.

The problem-solving process—part of the district's management-by-objectives system—involved more than administrators and central staff personnel, and resulted in an expected annual savings on utilities expense of 13 per cent in one building.

WITH PLYMOUTH'S $17 million school operating budget increasing each year, the $25,000 a year or more saved in electricity and natural gas at Plymouth Salem is significant. The savings is equivalent to the salaries of two or 2½ teachers.

That savings can be increased even more if the monitoring system is as successful as anticipated. The system can be installed in the three new elementary schools due to open in 1976.

With the district's utility expenses rising steeply from year to year, it is quite notable to cut gas and electric by 13 per cent in Salem High—a building which uses 25 per cent of the total energy consumed by all the district's buildings.

The district could have moaned about how skyrocketing utility costs are making havoc of the operating budget and done nothing more. Instead, the district moaned but then took positive action to reduce those costs wherever possible.

Hoedel, the energy conservation committee, central staff administrators, and the board of education deserve credit for positive action to cope with a very difficult problem. The future looks brighter, even though the lights may be getting dimmer.

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

It's still season to be jolly

T'is the season to be jolly, they say. Last year at this time our country was deep in a recession. Millions of people were unemployed. Watergate was in the minds of people.

This season, this year, we are coming out of the recession. There seems to be every reason why there should be hope in the hearts of people and they should look at the brighter side of life.

AS I WAS preparing to write a column a couple of weeks ago, I noticed that I had been very serious in my topics for the last month or so. So I said to myself, "Why take yourself so seriously? Things are better in the world."

I searched through my voluminous file called "column ideas" and came up with a letter that someone had given me concerning a college girl who hadn't been doing very well in school and had written her parents a letter telling them she had been in a dormitory fire and had fallen in love and was now pregnant without benefit of marriage.

She ended the letter by saying "It's all a joke, mom and dad. These things aren't true, but I'm getting a D in history and want to put things in their proper perspective."

Immediately after publication, I received telephone calls, letters and comments at social gatherings on how great it was to have someone poke fun at how seriously the world is taking itself.

ABOUT A WEEK later I began to get letters and calls from people who were involved in the civil rights movements, calling me a racist because my column implied that there was something wrong with a girl becoming pregnant by someone of other than her own social station.

Now, in the past few days I have been getting letters and calls from the Jewish community, saying that I am anti-Semitic because the letter was supposed to have been written by a girl named Becky and "everybody knows that she was of Jewish heritage." Therefore, I was casting aspersions at the Jewish people in the community and their values. I, unfortunately, did use a Jewish idiom in the column because to me it was Pennsylvania Dutch.

Again, the troubling thing is that our people take themselves so seriously that they don't seem to want to stand back and laugh a little. It is almost a mass paranoia that people are out "to get" them.

I did some research and found that Becky truly is the diminutive of Rebecca, a Hebrew name. But then again, so are Mary, Joseph, Anna, Ruth, Judith and many more. A hundred years ago Mark Twain named his heroine in "Tom Sawyer" Becky Thatcher.

And just last week I noticed an article in a newspaper which told of the marriage of Becky so-and-so in a Catholic church. All of this means that names have been universalized from their ancient origins.

THE POINT I am trying to make is the same reason I produced the column in the first place.

If I offended anyone with the column it was certainly not intentional. It would be plain stupidity for a writer to try to offend his readers.

But the intention behind the writing of the column is still valid. Let's take this season of the year to think of brotherhood and the good things people do, and smile.

DON'T TOY WITH US

Everyone's bogged down on region's transit plan

At the rate southeastern Michigan is moving, Toronto and the San Francisco Bay Area will be building their second generation rapid-transportation systems by the time we get going on our first.

While the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority is making progress in the bus field with new units and dial-a-ride services, the effort to get a rapid transit system—defined as averaging 45 m.p.h. or better on its own right of way, usually on a rail—is stalled.

There's grave danger that if this region doesn't get moving soon, whatever funds are left in the federal program, which is to supply 80 per cent of the capital, will be gobbled up by other deserving areas. We're in a fix where inaction amounts to negative action. Consider:

GOV. MILLIKEN, after 11½ months, still hasn't appointed anyone to succeed William Marshall on the SEMTA board. When you consider the advance warning Marshall gave of his departure, it means the governor's office has let this matter slide for a year.

The word was that Milliken was waiting for the legislature to approve the so-called "tripartite" deal between himself, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and what's left of the SEMTA board, before filling the vacancy.

That agreement calls for reorganization of the SEMTA board. The matter has been the subject of study by the Senate Taxation Committee, and initial testimony at a public hearing was solidly against it. Its chances of passage are remote.

But even if the reorganization were to be approved, it's no excuse for letting that SEMTA seat remain vacant. Milliken's people say the governor is unhappy with the weakness of SEMTA. If so, it doesn't help matters to let that seat remain vacant.

IN MID-NOVEMBER Prof. Allan A. Hyman of Southfield resigned from the SEMTA board after getting a time-consuming promotion at Wayne

Tim Richard writes

State University. Hyman is an appointee of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

SEMOG's general assembly doesn't meet again until mid-March. Thus, the SEMTA board, which needs leadership and a quorum, has a second vacancy in its nine-member panel.

SEMOG's leaders should consider a special meeting to fill that vacancy. They should also consider prodding the governor to fill his vacancy. SEMCOG has insisted it should continue to have the major role in appointing SEMTA board members. It can prove itself worthy of that trust by moving boldly to get that board filled.

THE SENATE Taxation Committee in Lansing, and then the full legislature, need to act promptly on enabling legislation so that southeastern Michigan can put up its $27 million annual share of rapid-transit construction.

Milliken, Young and the SEMTA board are asking for a tri-county vehicle tax. It's not the greatest idea in the universe, but it's far from the worst.

If the senators don't like it, then they should come up with something else. There are a dozen other regions around the nation that have managed to finance their local 10 per cent shares of rapid-transit construction. We could borrow one of their ideas.

OUR LEADERS in Lansing will be home for a long holiday after Wednesday.

Plain folks can help the cause by bugging them about the lack of action. It would even help if folks would come up with constructive ideas on how to get the transit system rolling.

The University of Michigan survey of a few months ago showed people see the lack of public transportation as a serious deficiency in these parts. They're willing to pay for it. Our local and state leaders need some hard prodding.

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

Years of progress lost

The State of Michigan is in the middle of a first-class budgetary crisis. This is news to no one.

The governor and the Legislature have at last agreed on cost cuts of $123 million, but this has come only after enormous haggling and will still leave the state $158 million away from a balanced budget. This is news to no one.

Much of the cuts will come from local school districts, which, for the second time this year, have had their school aid cut by the state. This is news to every parent who has a child in school, because the cuts will be so deep as to threaten the quality of education offered by every school district in these suburbs.

CONSIDER the Farmington School District.

The latest cut in state aid, amounting to 1.7 per cent, will total $344,062. This is on top of the previous reduction in state aid of $121,434, making a total slash in support for the district of $465,496 for this school year.

William Prisk, the district's business manager, says it's going to be a tough year for the district. "This 2.3 per cent cut is more than the state said we would lose when we started planning the budget for this year. And there is a chance of losing more next year. It has been rumored that around April there may be another adjustment."

Farmington school officials, by heroic effort, managed to build the first cut in state aid into a budget which anticipated a balance of $55,660 at the end of the school year. The problems of finding ways to save the $344,062 cut in the second round and maintain educational quality are almost beyond belief.

"I don't know where we can get the rest of the money from. We must eliminate costs somewhere, and that is going to hurt the district," concludes Prisk. His worries are echoed by the district's superintendent, Marinus Van Amedye: "There are only two solutions to the problem. We either have to cut our programs or increase our revenues. When we talk about increasing revenues, that means increasing property taxes. And nobody wants to see taxes increased."

THE SITUATION faced by Farmington is typical. Plymouth Community School District will lose $270,750, on top of a previous cut in state aid of $95,580. Garden City will lose $210,000, Livonia $725,000, Redford Union $172,000. And so forth.

Throughout the entire area, school officials are being forced to cut budgets that had already been slashed to the bone.

They face awful choices, since state law prohibits school districts from running an unbalanced budget. That means deficit budgeting is out.

Local taxpayers have been saying for at least four years that they will not put up with endlessly increasing property taxes. That means going for millage increases will be very, very tough.

Suburban parents who already have seen the reduction of the special programs and enriched curricula that originally helped attract them to the good schools in the suburbs will now have to face up to a further erosion of quality education.

THE REAL problem is that our entire educational system has been savaged by the passing on of the state's deficit back to our local communities.

Such a step might be acceptable if we could be assured that it would only be temporary. But further state aid cuts are expected next year.

Not only that, any good teacher you know or school administrator you can name will tell you that while it takes just a few weeks to cut educational quality in a school system, it takes years and years to build that quality back again.

That is the terrible thing about our current crisis. It will hurt not only us and our children, but very likely our children's children.

Sense And Nonsense

IT'S A GOOD thing Channel 56 isn't a commercial television station, considering its claims. The other day, it announced between program that it would solicit viewer contributions for "just a couple of minutes."

Well, that "couple of minutes" turned into four minutes of direct selling followed by six minutes of rock music with slogans saying we should all give to Channel 56—a total of 10 minutes of commercial. Thus, the message took five times longer than Channel 56 said it would.

EGOMANIAC of the month has to be that guy in Lansing who mails out your license plates.

He puts his name on every envelope no less than three times.

Sure, there's going to be some public financing of election campaigns, but the secretary of state is overdoing it.

Officials are closed to open meetings bills

By TIM RICHARD

Officials from Schoolcraft College, Livonia School District and Canton Township vigorously attacked two proposed "open meetings" bills before the Michigan Legislature.

But persons from Wayne-Westland School District, Garden City and Clarenceville attacked the practice in local government of holding executive sessions in secret.

The exchange came Monday as State Rep. Thomas Brown (D-Westland) brought the House towns and counties committee to Livonia for a public hearing on bills by State Reps. David Hollister (D-Lansing) and Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor).

PAUL Y. KADISH, board chairman of Schoolcraft College, and Geraldine Joyner, trustee on both the Livonia school board and Wayne Intermediate school board, agreed closed doors are necessary for certain kinds of business.

They cited collective bargaining strategy, land acquisition, and "sensitive" personnel matters.

Kadish likened open meetings on collective bargaining to "a poker game where everybody (employees' unions) could see my hand, but I couldn't see theirs."

And he said it is doubtful community colleges have the right to condemn property, so secret negotiations are needed in real estate matters.

Mrs. Joyner said Hollister's bill "denies any two members of a seven-person body even a chance meeting... or having an after-the-meeting cup of coffee... without being subject to violation of the law."

IN REPLY, Hollister and Bullard said union negotiations are almost never conducted by a board; that the public would benefit from knowing a board's broad strategy because it could see how programs would be hurt by high wage settlements; and that the Michigan Education Association expressed a preference for open negotiations.

They attacked the practice of secrecy in property negotiations "because the Realtors and speculators know what's going on, and even the bankers can guess. The only ones in the dark are the public."

Hollister said that as chairman of

J. J. Zugich to replace Dr. R. Budd

John J. Zugich, associate director of the University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor, since 1962, will become director of Northville State Hospital January 12, 1976.

Announcement of his appointment was made by Donald C. Smith, M.D., director, Michigan Department of Mental Health.

Zugich joined the staff of University Hospital in 1952. He was named assistant director of the hospital in 1953 and associate director in 1962.

He succeeds Richard Budd, M.D., who asked to be relieved of administrative responsibility for the 800-bed hospital which provides inpatient and outpatient services for mentally ill adults from northwest Detroit and Wayne County.

Dr. Smith said Dr. Budd will continue work on a special project designed to develop a problem-oriented record keeping system for the Department.

"We are taking several other steps designed to strengthen the staff at Northville," said Dr. Smith, "including assignment of Fulvio Ferrari, M.D., and John Reynolds to assist in the administrative transition."

Dr. Ferrari, medical administrator for southeast Michigan mental health services, and Reynolds, mental health administrator for the Detroit-Wayne region, will continue in these roles while assisting in the Northville reorganization, said Dr. Smith.

Concert to aid MD association

A variety Christmas concert benefit begins at noon Dec. 28 at the Troy Hilton Gordon Ballroom.

Among those appearing will be First Dibs, Dean Rutledge, Ron Coden, Sundown, Katzenjammer, Nancy Lee, Three's Company, Pure Imagination, Robb Fritz, Dennis Vernier, Jill Phillips, Primo Family, Mike Fuller, Detroit Purple Gang, Ron Romps, Jason Steel, Conti Family and John Trudell.

The show is being sponsored by WDRQ radio and E.S.P. Productions of Plymouth.

Ticket sales are being handled by Hudson's and Grinnell's. The show, which begins at noon, is scheduled to last until 1 a.m.

the Ingham County Board of Commissioners, he always had one to six lawsuits on his hands. "If you wanted to discuss lawsuits (in secret), you could close your meetings at any time."

CANTON TOWNSHIP Supervisor Robert Greenstein said inexperienced board members need closed, preliminary budget discussions. "These men would be embarrassed if they had to ask these questions in public."

Secret negotiations over property are necessary, Greenstein said, because growing Canton is "inundated with Realtors, speculators and quick-buck artists. The moment they found out (a piece of property was under consideration), they'd be out trying to double the price and make a killing by buying land around it."

He added, "It bothers me that legislations improperly passed would (under the bills) be void—not merely voidable. The terrific fees we pay for bond counsel and other investments would be down the drain."

Greenstein said board members would discuss business in private if they wished, "and there's nothing you can do about it. The bills are unenforceable."

GARDEN CITY resident Robert Swartz said that municipality's new charter requires open meetings, but the council violated it in its first major decision.

"A lot of us were surprised to find the appointment of a city manager was made on a Saturday afternoon in the Leather Bottle Inn and then announced on Monday night at the council meeting."

"This alone convinces me we should have open meetings as proposed in these two bills," Swartz said.

CLARENCEVILLE resident J.W. Wright complained that school officials "hee-hawed" him when he asked if equipment from the now-closed Westbrook Elementary School had been advertised for public auction.

It turned out, he said, the sale had not been advertised.

Wright told of a Clarenceville board meeting about a year ago: "The meeting was packed. The board adjourned for a private session. People left... We sat."

Vincent Pettipren, speaking for the 15th Congressional District Democratic organization, said "the executive meeting is just to protect local officials. If they'd take their office seriously and know what it is before they ran for it, they wouldn't need it."

Pettipren is a member of the Wayne-Westland school board, a sometime lobbyist for Wayne State University, former state representative and former Nankin Township trustee.

"I hope you will persevere," said Pettipren, alluding to the tough sledding open meetings bills face in the legislature. "If you can't get the whole loaf, I hope you'll go for half, three-quarters or nine-tenths."

What makes NOW tag a toy 'sexist?'

BY SHERRY KAHAN

"NOW members don't buy sexist toys," read one of the signs carried by the group of women, children and one baby who picketed the Garden City Kmart recently.

Protesting the sale of toys which stereotype boys and girls in certain roles were members of the Mid-Western Wayne County Chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW).

Its members live in Garden City, Westland, Canton Township, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights and Romulus.

"Don't program me," declared a sign carried by nine-year-old Anne Kubek of Garden City. "Give me a choice."

Near her a stuffed Santa in a baby stroller bore the statement, "I don't deliver sexist toys."

Other signs indicated the group's displeasure with the toymaking Kenner

Corp., which a NOW spokesman said has refused to pay women on its board of directors the same salary it pays male directors.

"The company fired one of these women because she filed a suit on this pay question," said Christine Novak, who led the NOW protest. "Ordered by the court to reinstate her, the company did so but later fired her again."

During the picketing her son, Michael, seven, toted a sign telling the world, "I don't want any Kenner toys for Christmas."

MRS. NOVAK explained that the group chose to make its point at the Garden City Kmart because it is the oldest Kmart in the country.

Then, to illustrate her dissatisfaction with certain toys, such as doctor and nurse kits, she told a brief story.

"I once watched a girl playing with her nurse kit and asked her if she was the doctor."

The child responded, "No, I can't be a doctor. I'm a girl."

Mrs. Novak noted that the girl, "had never seen or heard of a woman doctor."

She added: "A picture of a girl is on the nurse kit and a picture of a boy is on the doctor kit. The doctor kit has the real equipment like the stethoscope. These toys are programming girls into thinking they can only become nurses, and boys into thinking they can only become doctors."

ANOTHER GIFT that is an anathema to NOW is Growing Up Skipper. It is not her arms, legs or curly locks which exhibit growth, but her breasts.

"You turn her arm and she grows breasts," explained Mrs. Novak. "I've read that little girls have wrenched their arms trying to imitate this doll.

"Little boys are playing with them as though it were some kind of a dirty thing. NOW thinks the development of a girl's mind should receive as much attention as her bosom."

"If they brought out a boy doll with a leg you twist to simulate growth during puberty, men would have a fit."

"The board of directors of these companies are usually men, and they try to figure out what women will buy. We have to let them know when we don't like their products."

MRS. NOVAK also questioned different marketing for the same toy. In one case the toy is packaged as vacuum cleaner with the advice "play vacuum like mommie."

"The same toy is also brought out for boys telling them to play lawnmower like daddy," reported Mrs. Novak. "This is stereotyping and not giving the child a choice. A study done by Yale University indicated that if a boy's picture is on the box, it will be bought for a boy, and for a girl if a girl's picture is there."

Mrs. Novak also zeroed in on action toys, complaining that pool games and hockey games for children bear the picture of males only.

A sign carried by one of the youngsters during the picketing reminded the public that "A girl can catch too."

Toys with these pictures "show a girl she should not be interested in action," claimed Mrs. Novak.

Pictures of girls always adorn doll feeding equipment, mop sets and other happy household equipment, she said. "It puts across the idea that girls have to iron and clean while boys can go play hockey."

BARBIE DOLLS and their vast needs for clothing and equipment also give NOW members considerable distress.

"We are concerned with the way they push expensive fashions and make-up with these dolls," said Mrs. Novak. "It pushes girls into thinking that in order to be feminine they must wear high heels and makeup."

"People spend a fortune keeping up with Barbie and her boats, townhouse and camper. These dolls are too materialistic. We don't want girls to grow up and think of themselves as Barbie dolls. They seem so empty-headed."

Books currently reflect non-sexist attitudes, according to Mrs. Novak. "I'm happy to see this."

But then again, some of the career games on the market offer girls the choice of being only a ballerina, a nurse or a stewardess.

"In the Your America quiz game covering 200 years of American history, there are only five females included," said Mrs. Novak. "One of them is Lyndon Johnson's dog, Her."

Gifts made in school classes

BY SHERRY KAHAN

There are certain people in the area who should not read this article. Not yet anyway.

It's about students who are spending time in school making Christmas presents for their relatives. Since some of these youngsters want to keep their gifts a deep secret, all readers had better pull to a screeching halt until they find out which youngsters are involved.

Those who should wait to read this until after the presents are opened Dec. 25 are the parents of seventh graders in Fred Priebe's woodshop class at Stevenson Junior High School in Westland.

A stop sign is also up for the relatives of kindergartners in Mrs. Rosetta Maddick's class in Truesdell Elementary School in Canton Township and the fourth and fifth graders in Mrs. Diane DeJardin's class in Marquette Elementary School in Garden City.

All others, read on!

GETTING the present-making on the road recently were Canton Township kindergartners sitting around their little tables making paper Santas.

With them were two mothers, Mrs. Betty Beaumarchais and Mrs. Tracy Wylie, who came by to help with the holiday doings.

It was primarily a pasting project, with the mothers turning out the Santas and the kids pasting on his features.

"Please pass me an eyeball," said Mrs. Beaumarchais as she finished the Santas and began to work on his face.

Students could dive into the homemade glue up to their elbows if they wished, or, if more fastidious, they could dip in a forefinger. Jennifer Fugate was of the dainty forefinger school, and with great care put glue on a moustache for her Santa.

While the project was planned as a possible parental gift, Jennifer had much more grandiose ideas for her Christmas gifts.

"I want to get a purse for my mom and a shirt for my dad," she said.

Next to her, Melissa Brenner was bravely carrying on the project even though "I don't like the glue."

MEANWHILE, OVER at the woodshop class at Stevenson, Jerry Demeter stood at the drill press wearing safety glasses. Carefully he drew down the drill onto his block of wood.

His Christmas project was to make a lamp with a block of wood and a pop can. At that moment he was using the drill press to cut a circle in his wood which would hold his pop can. The can in turn would hold the wiring for the lamp.

"I'm making it for Dad," he said. "He'll probably like it because I made it, and am learning to do things like using a drill and putting wire on a plug."

"When I get older I'll know how to do these things and no one will have to show me."

Gary Whitlark felt pretty good when the hand drill he was using pushed all the way through his block of wood.

"It's good to know how to work with tools," he said. "I'm out right. I'm going to give the lamp to my Mom for Christmas."

Then with a grin he added, "It gets you away from the regular school work."

The grandfather of Mike Lorenz is to be the recipient of Mike's lamp. "He works with tools a lot," said Mike. "He's given me things he's made. Now I'm going to give him something I made."

DIANE GAINES, one of the six girls in the woodshop class of 20, said she took the class because she thought it would be fun.

She added that boys at the school can take home economics classes such as cooking and sewing.

"We get to learn about all kinds of tools," she said.

What had she learned in the class that might enhance the value of the gift in her parents' eyes?

"I learned how to use a drill press," she said. "I will learn how to hook up wires, to sand my block of wood and to use a hand drill."

She also learned about safety in regard to tools.

"You must wear safety glasses or goggles at all times when you use the drill press," repeatedly warned Priebe, an industrial arts teacher.

WHILE THE STEVENSON students learned safety through personal experience, students at Marquette Elementary School were learning about recycling.

It was hard to tell that the beautiful planter which looked like a Hansel and Gretel wishing well was made of old milk cartons, macaroni and paint.

"It's a good idea for kids," maintained Sharon Waldron. "You don't have to spend anything, and you use a lot of left over stuff."

Perhaps it should be mentioned that the macaroni is the hard variety rather than the already used. In the shape of bow ties, screws and elbows, it was pasted on the milk cartons by Mrs. DuJardin's students.

"It's the thought that counts," said Michael Pennanen. "I'm going to give it to my mom. She likes plants."

"It's fun to make," noted Scott Henderson, adding a popular piece of school philosophy, "it's great to do instead of school work."

"Even if it's junkie, our moms will

Norma Burgett of Marquette School in Garden City holds a wishing well that can be used as a planter. In its previous life it was a milk carton and pieces of macaroni.

Stacy Rentenbach of Westland slowly pulls down the drill press to form a circle that will hold the pop can at the left. The result will be a lamp which she can give away as a Christmas present.

'Mother of Year' nominations open

The search for the Michigan Mother of the Year in 1976 has begun. Mrs. David F. Zuhlke, state chairman of the Michigan Mothers Committee, has announced the launching of the search for Michigan Mother of 1976.

The primary objective of the American Mothers Committee is to develop and strengthen the moral and spiritual foundations of the American home.

Nomination blanks are now being distributed. The qualifications for the award are:

1. That she be a successful mother, as evidenced by the character and achievements of her individual children. Her youngest child must not be younger than 15 so that the individual children's achievements can be properly judged.
2. That she is an active member of a religious body.
3. That she embody the traits of courage, cheerfulness, patience, affection, kindness, understanding and a homemaking ability.
4. That she exemplify in her life and conduct the precepts of the Golden Rule.
5. That she have a sense of responsibility in civic affairs and that she be active in services for public benefit.
6. That she is qualified to represent the Mothers of America in all responsibilities attached to her role as National Mother.
7. That she be sponsored by a church or an organization.

Nomination blanks can be obtained by writing the following address: Mrs. Richard Kuhn, Michigan Mothers Committee, 6471 Wellesley Terrace, Waterford 48095.

Nomination blanks should be returned to the above address by Jan.

Mary Dumas receives the Soroptimist "Women Helping Women" award from Michael McGee, representing Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara. Grace Fox is looking on.

'Women helping woman' award given Mary Dumas

Wayne County Commissioner Mary Dumas, a Livonian described as "ahead of her time," is recipient of the Soroptimist International "Women Helping Women" award this year.

Mrs. Dumas was honored by the Soroptimist club of Livonia at a dinner meeting.

The award given her was presented locally for the second time. It has been part of the Soroptimist International program for more than 20 years.

A PLAQUE inscribed for Mrs. Dumas was presented by Michael McGee, representing Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, honorary chairman for the program.

The award committee was headed by Frances Moore and Jessie Sanderson and included Grace Fox, Virginia Handzlik and Lela Bingham.

Rosina Raymond explained the basis of the honor.

"MARY DUMAS is truly worthy of this award," she said, "for, in some ways, she has been ahead of her time."

"Her activities as Wayne County commissioner have included efforts to aid passage of the new Michigan rape statute and to establish a rape crisis program in Wayne County.

"She also has stressed the need for assistance to girl runaways and delinquents, has supported probation and drug treatment programs for women as well as vocational rehabilitation at the Detroit House of Correction."

"Her political activities have included local and state leadership roles in the Republican Party, including encouragement of Gladys Barsamian, Lenore Romney and other women candidates for political office."

"All this has been in addition to her interests as homemaker for her husband, Victor, a local businessman, and her three children, Cordelia, Charles and Julianne."

IN OTHER civic activities, Mrs. Dumas served two years as legislative chairman of the Livonia Business and Professional Women's Club and built a program built on legislation as it affects women and the community.

She also is a member of the advisory committee on women's programs at Schoolcraft College.

The Soroptimist program for the evening included a UNICEF film, "A Grain of Sand," in recognition of Human Rights Day. Mrs. Fox, state coordinator for UNICEF, added comments about alleviating suffering in Africa and other areas affected by famine.

Frances Moore briefly described other Soroptimist service projects.

MSU course on midwifery

The role of midwives in indigenous and modern medical settings will be the theme of a graduate seminar winter term at Michigan State University.

The seminar will be conducted by Drs. Loudell Snow and Brigitte Jordan, assistant professors of anthropology and community medicine. There will be a limited enrollment of graduate students in medical anthropology and students and professionals in health fields.

"We will consider the position and function of midwives from earliest records to modern times," Dr. Snow said.

Foster kids get Yule party

The Center for Community Living for Retarded Citizens of Wayne County will sponsor a party Saturday, Dec. 20 in honor of foster children and foster care parents at the holiday sea- son.

The event will be held in the Cyprian Center, 600 E. Warren, Detroit.

and about 100 children are expected. The party will run from 1 to 4 p.m.

Joan Mayernik of the center that seeks community homes for retarded children and adults, said there had been great community response, in- cluding a substantial donation from the Burroughs Corp., to finance the party.

Hatchet produces chips

Did you know that potato chips were developed by a man named George Crumb, of all things? He was an American Indian chef at a resort hotel in Saratoga Springs, N.Y. Once evening in the mid-19th century a fastidious diner repeatedly sent back his french fries, complaining they were too thick. Furious, Crumb sliced po- tatoes paper thin and threw them in the boiling oil. When done, he served them up as Saratoga chips. For a while they were a Saratoga specialty, but you can't contain a good thing and they soon became one of America's fa- vorite snacks.

New voices

Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Kell of Greenbriar Street, Plymouth, an- nounce the birth of their second son, Christopher Andrew, on Nov. 17 in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor.

The Kells also have a three-year-old son, Joshua.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Sedore of Houghton Lake announce the birth of their first child, a son, Steven Donald, on Nov. 21 in Mercy Hospital at Gray- ling.

Mrs. Sedore is the former Patricia Lynne Weitzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gunther Weitzel of Redford Township. Steven's paternal grand- mother is Mrs. Ina Sedore of Edmore, Mich.

Sally and Kenneth Plitzer of Donna Street, Westland, announce the birth of their fourth child, a son, Kevin Leon, on Nov. 6 in Annapolis Hospital. Helping welcome Kevin home were Kenny, 8; Suzanne, 6, and Sharyn, 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hallerman of Lakeland Court, Plymouth, announce the birth of their second child, a daughter, Lauren Andrea, in St. Mary Hospital Dec. 10.

Lauren has a sister, Kristen. Their grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Wil- liam Hallerman of Cincinnati and Mr. and Mrs. Jack O. Gadd of Saginaw.

Gerald and Mary Ann Pfeifer of Garden City announce the birth of their fourth daughter, Colleen Anne, on Nov. 23 in Annapolis Hospital.

Colleen's sisters are Margaret Mary, 12, Kathryn Mary, 5 and Kris- ten Maria, 14 months. The girls' grandparents are Mrs. Irene Pfeifer of Dearborn and Mr. and Mrs. Barney Jaszek of Garden City.

More older students

Michigan State University's student body includes a growing number of older students, including freshmen over age 50. From 1971 to 1975, total MSU enrollment increased by seven per cent, while enrollment of students over age 23 jumped by 19.8 per cent.

Gift wrapping to aid retarded

The Oakland County Association for Retarded Citizens will have a gift wrapping booth though Dec. 24 at the Pontiac Mall in Waterford Township.

Proceeds from the project will en- able the organization to continue many of its special programs and services in 1976.

These include the Michigan Per- forming Arts Competition, the largest regional special Olympics in the U.S., camperships, drop-in centers or coffee houses, citizen advocacy and many other projects.

CHURCH BULLETIN

GRAND RIVER BAPTIST CHURCH, will hear a John W. Peterson cantata "A Song Unending," sung by its chancel choir at the 10:45 a.m. service Sunday, Dec. 21.

The choir is directed by James Gilmore and James Proffitt will be at the organ. Dr. Wilbert D. Gough, pastor, will narrate the scripture passages.

For the church's 7 p.m. service, there will be congregational caroling and a message from Dr. Gough titled "How to have a very Merry Christmas." Young people of the church will go caroling after the evening service, and youth of the community are invited to join them.

NEWBURG UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 36500 Ann Arbor Trail, will present its four choirs in a Christmas concert in duplicate service at 9:15 and 11 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 21.

Participating will be the chancel choir, led by Winnie Nixon, and the youth, children's and cherub choirs, directed by David and Terry Gladstone.

ST. PAUL UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Five Mile west of Inkster, Livonia, will have Christmas Sunday services Dec. 21 at 9:30 and 11 a.m. featuring the chancel choir in "The Many Moods of Christmas," a Robert Shaw work that is a medley of sacred and popular holiday music.

ST. MATTHEW LUTHERAN CHURCH, 5885 Venoy, Westland, will present a Christmas concert with the music of five choirs as well as the guitar, flute, clarinet, cello and glockenspiel Sunday, Dec. 21 at 7 p.m.

Directing the music of the second, girls' children's and first and senior grade choirs will be Corinne Lehman, with Sue Lehman, Karen Nemmetz, Shelly Swarthout and Tom Fischer serving as accompanists.

There will be vocal solos by Ruth Baumgartner, Joyce Helmkamp, July Hackerd, Pat Seewald, Doug Schoech and Mr. and Mrs. George Luckwald. Instrumentalists will include Tom Powers, Joanne Heinert, Karen Nemmetz, Martha Lehman and Paul Lehman.

LIVONIA WESLEYAN CHURCH, 14560 Merriman, will see its Sunday school students in a Christmas program titled "Born to be King," Sunday, Dec. 21 at 7 p.m.

The play will be directed by Becky Cox, assisted by department superintendents Freda Hayton and Jean Gordanier. It depicts a group of foreign students who attend a Christmas program and later meet to discuss the program and the evidence in regard to the person of Jesus Christ.

FAITH LUTHERAN CHURCH, 30000 Five Mile, Livonia, will present a candlelight concert Sunday, Dec. 21 at 7 p.m., with music by senior, teen and junior choirs, youth and adult handbell choirs and a brass ensemble and instrumentalists.

Pre-service music will begin at 6:45 p.m. Marie Schmitz directs the musical groups.

HOLY TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH, will have a candlelight Christmas concert Sunday, Dec. 21 at 7 p.m.

The program will feature the church's choirs along with brass, strings, woodwinds and percussion instruments. Tea and Christmas cookies will be served following the program.

NATIVITY UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST, 9435 Henry Ruff, Livonia, will present its chancel choir in a Christmas cantata, "A Day for Dancing," by Lloyd Pfatsch, on Sunday, Dec. 21 at 10 a.m. The modern version of the festival of Christmas uses carols and instrumentalists and will be directed by Peggy A. Koons.

Geraldine Parsons will be at the organ, and the music also will feature violinist Ann Swanson, flutist Carol Doelp and percussionist Maureen Livey. Joan Gress, Jim Schulz, Walt Doelp, Bob Shaw and Jim Swanson will be soloist.

The church also plans its children's Christmas program Dec. 21 at 6:30 p.m. Each department will participate in the candlelight program, directed by Donna Pelt and titled "The Light of the World."

Visits by famed personages as Livingston and Stanley, Albert Schweitzer, Martin Luther, Isaiah, David, Abraham, Joseph and Mary are included in the action. Refreshments will follow the program.

LIVONIA CHRISTIAN CHURCH, (Disciples of Christ), 36075 Seven Mile, Livonia, will have a Christmas candlelight vesper service Sunday, Dec. 21 at 7 p.m.

The three-part program, narrated by Mrs. Tom VanHeyningen and accompanied by Mrs. Gwen Jackman at the organ, will feature the church's chancel choir, men's choir and women's chorus, with solos by Tom VanHeyningen, Art Smith, Meryl Amino, Margaret Mason, Russ Bark and Wanda Morelli. The music will include "And the Glory of the Lord," and the "Hallelujah Chorus," from Handel's "The Messiah."

The offering taken will be used for emergency needs in the community, according to the Rev. William H. Hass, pastor, who invited the community to participate in the Christmas worship.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH, 43065 Joy, Plymouth, will present a 65-voice choir, accompanied by piano, organ, brass and full spectrum of percussion in John W. Peterson's cantata, "Christ Is Born," Sunday, Dec. 21 at 7 p.m.

Tom Hovermale, minister of music at Calvary, will direct the program.

LIVONIA BAPTIST CHURCH, 32940 Schoolcraft, will offer the Christmas cantata, "Born a King," by its adult choir on Sunday, Dec. 21 at 7 p.m.

A Lutheran pastor tells a story of Christmas

A mission service's seasonal appeal, a pastor's Sunday morning children's story and a little boy's concern for other children combine to make a Christmas story that shouldn't be missed.

Principals in the account are Christian Aid Mission, the Rev. George N. Fleischer of Timothy Lutheran Church in Livonia and five-year-old Brad Peck of Plymouth.

And Pastor Fleischer's letter to the treasurer of the American Lutheran Church, headquartered in Minneapolis, tells the story.

Wrote the clergyman:

"ENCLOSED HEREWITH you will find a check in the amount of $10.83, to be used for world hunger, to feed hungry children.

"The story of the offering is interesting. On the first Sunday in Advent, my weekly children's message dealt with the theme 'What Do You Want for Christmas?'—making the point of the contrast between the usual children's list for Santa and the true meaning of having the gift of Christ in the heart, the peace and joy that goes with it, and the suggestion that they might start working on a different kind of Christmas list, the gifts of the spirit.

"The following Sunday, I used the same theme, illustrated by a picture of a little boy, emphasizing that in the midst of our affluence we tend to forget that there are many children in the world who would gladly settle for a pan full of rice, and that one of the true meanings of Christmas is that it is not just a time to exchange gifts but a time to share what we have with those who have not.

DURING THE FOLLOWING week, one of our young children, Brad Peck, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs.

Larry Peck, approached his mother 'out of the blue' with the idea that he was disturbed about what the pastor had said, that some children would not have anything to eat on Christmas day. And then he asked if it would be all right 'if I took the can of pennies I've been saving and gave it to the pastor to help those children get some rice?'

"So, on the third Sunday in Advent, Brad and his little sister, Pam, 'preached' the children's message. After the pastor explained what had happened (naturally taking advantage of the opportunity to suggest that others might want to follow such a fine example,) they took their offering, in its original can, not even knowing how much it contained since it was a sealed beer can with a slot on top, to the altar and, with the pastor, offered a brief prayer.

"It was a moving experience. The money is enclosed."

Methodist Children's Home names life members

The Methodist Children's Home Society has three new life members, all honored for long service to children and youth during a recent meeting of the society's board of directors.

The directors, meeting at Children's Village, 26645 W. Six Mile, Redford Township, singled out for high honors Roger J. Emmert of Birmingham, Oakland County Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore, and William H. Baldwin of Detroit.

The society also awarded resolutions of appreciation and recognition to three persons, Mrs. Phyllis Martz of Birmingham, Mrs. Barbara Geyer of Livonia and the Rev. Verge J. Carson, now of Lakeland, Fla.

Emmert, a retired General Motors Corp. executive, is an active member of the First United Methodist Church of Birmingham and a member of the Methodist Children's Home Society's board of trustees for the past decade.

Serving on the agency's endowment committee, he was credited with helping to increase agency resources and enlarging the scope of its services. He has also served on the board of trustees of Beaumont Hospital and holds life membership in that organization.

Judge Moore, widely recognized in Detroit and throughout the state for his humanitarian interests, has been a member of the board of trustees of the society since 1951. The society expressed gratitude for his professional advice and counsel on the acceptance, care and adoptive placement of children and for his many years of service to the agency.

Baldwin, president of the Kresge Foundation, is a past president of Methodist Children's Home Society and has served on its Board of Trustees since 1948. He is well-known in Detroit for his philanthropic interests and humanitarian enterprises throughout the world.

In 1941, he participated as a prosecutor in the famous Nuremberg trials. The Baldwin family has given strong support to Methodist Church programs for three generations. Baldwin's grandfather was a Methodist minister and his father, Howard, was personal attorney for Sebastian Kresge and helped to establish the Methodist Foundation, several retirement homes and the Boulevard Temple.

Foster parents set brunch

The foster parents group of Catholic Social Services will host a Christmas Brunch for more than 300 children Sunday, Dec. 21 at the agency office, 9851 Hamilton, Detroit, from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The party will be for all the youngsters in families that include some foster children. Pancakes and sausage will be served and Santa will visit with a gift for every child attending.

Connie Ramsden of Westland is chairperson of the event.

Jenkins' home in Arkansas

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Joe Jenkins are making their home in Helena, Ark., following their recent wedding in St. James Lutheran Church, Detroit.

Mrs. Jenkins is the former Sharon Aileen Wiener, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan C. Wiener of Plymouth. Mr. and Mrs. Aruthr B. Jenkins of Helena are the bridegroom's parents.

The Rev. Darwin Wilson officiated. The bride's gown was candlelight silk organza, and with it she wore a Juliet headpiece with lace and seed pearls fashioned by her grandmother, Mrs. Kenneth Wiener. Her bouquet included white roses, carnations and baby's breath.

Attendants for the bride wore jersey jacket dresses in rainbow pastel shades. Jann Martin, the bride's sister, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Donna Jenkins, Debra Kropik, Cheryl Cooley and Joanne Schuenske. All carried multi-colored carnations tied with ribbons matching their dresses.

Arthur Jenkins was best man for his son, and the ushers were Gary Wiener, Dwayne Harrison and David Hart.

The reception was held at the Bonnie Brook Country Club and the couple honeymooned in northern Michigan.

Crafts and 'little things' in display

General Tom Thumb's carriage is one of the "little things" on exhibit in the Henry Ford Museum.

The special spirit that marked Christmas long ago is recreated at Henry Ford Museum this holiday season.

"The Crafts at Christmas," an exhibit that runs to Jan. 4, recalls the quieter days when Americans had time to enjoy the simple pleasures of Yuletide celebration. Crafts, music, and period decorations impart a festive air throughout the museum.

Highlighting this year's Christmas observance in the museum is a special exhibit, "Little Things for Little People and the Young at Heart." As the title implies, this is a display of miniatures—not toys, but patent models, salesmen's samples and exact-to-scale replicas of full-sized objects.

In this exhibit, visitors of all ages have a chance to glimpse the world of their forebears in greatly reduced size. Nearly every aspect of an earlier America is depicted in miniature.

There's the world's smallest steam engine which was originally exhibited at the 1876 Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, a carriage once owned by the midget Tom Thumb and a miniature steam pumper fire engine as well as agricultural implements, small trains, ships and musical instruments—all models, in scale, of their real-life counterparts. Also displayed are examples of tiny furniture, ceramics, silver, pewter and other domestic objects collected by the late Mrs. Henry Ford and reflecting her interest in the smaller realm.

ELSEWHERE in the museum, along the Street of Early American Shops, more than a dozen costumed craftsmen demonstrate the skills that provided earlier generations with not only holiday luxuries, but the necessities of life as well.

Simple brooms, pewter bells and buttons, delicate glass Christmas ornaments and fresh green wreaths take form under the skilled hands of these experienced artisans.

The domestic arts are an important part of these demonstrations, too. Still more craftsmen mold fragrant candles, stitch colorful quilts and bake tasty Christmas cookies according to the traditions of long ago. Visitors also may watch demonstrations of lace making, macrame, crewel embroidery, tole painting, doll making and much more.

The entire museum is trimmed in special Christmas finery for the holiday presentation. Wreaths, ribbons and cedar roping decorate lampposts and doorways, while old-fashioned Christmas trees enhance the holiday spirit along aisles and in hallways.

In the decorative arts galleries, gar-lands of greens, centerpieces of fruit and fanciful decorations from out of the past grace the period settings and alcoves.

YULETIDE MUSIC provides a background for the sights awaiting holiday visitors inside the museum. Instrumental tunes appropriate to the season are performed from time to time by costumed musicians on antique instruments. At other times, choirs proclaim the joys of Christmas in song.

Hours in the museum are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends. From Dec. 26 through Jan. 4, the museum will remain open until 9 p.m. Henry Ford Museum is closed Christmas Day and New Year's Day.

There is no additional charge for "The Crafts at Christmas" presentation beyond the regular Museum admission of $2.75 for adults and $1.25 for children 6 through 12. Children under six are admitted free.

For up-to-the-minute information on holiday activities at Henry Ford Museum and adjacent Greenfield Village, dial Village Party Line (313) 271-1976. This service is available 24 hours every day.

Prof. suggests national care

Reimbursement for "health conservation" services ought to be part of national health insurance programs, says a Michigan State University urban and metropolitan studies professor.

Patricia Barnes-McConnell, recently testifying before a U.S. House Subcommittee on Health, urged "a more realistic approach to improving the health status of the entire population in the face of escalating curative health costs."

She said community health conservation would emphasize health education and preventive measures. This might also include: involvement in local environmental or occupational health issues; efforts to change unhealthy but culturally supported lifestyles; and health-related community development activities.

Ypsi tankers down Canton

The Plymouth Canton swim team showed more signs of improvement Tuesday night, but it wasn't enough to overcome a well-balanced Ypsilanti Braves squad who downed the Chief tankers 107-65.

"As a team, we swam better than our past two meets, we didn't come up with enough firsts to win, although we are still improving," philosophized Canton coach William Faunce after the meet.

Canton lost its second dual meet a week ago to Dearborn Annapolis by a narrow 87-84 margin, while finishing seventh out of 12 teams at the Redford Union Invitational Relays last Saturday.

The highlight of the evening, as far as Canton was concerned, was the performance of its 200-yard medley relay team.

The quartet of breaststroker Tim Greenleaf, Steve Wood swimming butterfly, Jim Redding swimming backstroke, and freestyler Dave Tanner eclipsed their seasonal best by two seconds in racing to victory in 1:54.6.

Other first-place finishes were posted by sophomore Steve Wood in the 100-yard butterfly with a clocking of 1:00.5. Kevin Harris entered the 200-yard individual medley for the first time this season and came away a winner in 2:15.2.

The 400-yard freestyle relay combination of Mark Mrowka, Tanner, Wood and Kevin Harris dunked the rest of the field coasting to victory in 3:46.6, their best time of the season.

Among the second-place finishes by the Chiefs was Mrowka in the 100-yard freestyle in 55.7, a personal best. Bob Cline placed in the runnerup spot with a time of 1:08.3 in the 100-yard backstroke, while Harris grabbed a second-place finish in the 500-yard freestyle in 5:28.7.

Plymouth Canton will be pitted against one of the area's strongest squads tonight (Thursday) when they take on the Northville Mustangs at 7 p.m. at home. Canton takes the holiday break after tonight's meet and will not return to action until Jan. 8 when they challenge Livonia Churchill in a home meet.

Trenton dropped

Rock JV cagers win

By THOMAS ZAIBEK

A well balanced scoring attack powered the Plymouth Salem junior varsity basketball team to a surprisingly easy victory over league rival Trenton 63 to 40.

Doug Agnew, Rich Hewlett and Dan Brightbill each had six points in the first period along with John Broderick and Mitch Haas' two points each, gave the Rocks a commanding 22-6 lead at the end of the period.

Plymouth's taller, stronger players were too much for Trenton as the Rocks continued their offensive dominance into the second period. With most of their starters watching the game, the Rocks pulled away to a comfortable 35 to 13 lead at the half.

It was a matter of completing the game in the second half as everybody saw action with Plymouth and Trenton trading baskets.

Plymouth went to the foul line 27 times, swishing 15 and hitting 7 of their last 8 foul shots.

Doug Agnew led in the scoring with 16 points, followed by Rich Hewlett's eight points. Dan Brightbill had seven and Pat Cavanaugh had five. The rest of the scoring was divided among eight other players.

Although this is a well balanced team, continually looking for the open man, unselfish in its bid for scoring honors, there usually is a standout in the game with his aggressive, defensive and offensive play. This week it's guard Doug Agnew whose first period continual harassment of Trenton players caused numerous turnovers that gave Plymouth the large lead in the first.

The Rocks are now 3-1. They face Bentley at home Dec. 19.

Bentley icers perfect

The Bulldogs from Livonia Bentley, coached by Ken Erskitz, made it 4-0 on the hockey season with an 11-4 drubbing last week of Taylor Kennedy. The Bentley pucksters were paced by Mitch Staricha, a defenseman, who collected four goals and an assist.

Don Delabbio, who has been blistering opposing nets with great frequency early this season, chipped in a pair of goals and three assists for Bentley, while Byron Freshwater also notched two markers in the victory over Kennedy.

Single goals were scored by the Bulldogs' Bob Rozek, who added four assists, Brian Freshwater and Jim Cox. Tim Oakley and Kevin Stachelski shared goaltending chores for Bentley.

Oakley gave up a goal in each of the first and second periods, while Stachelski was beaten twice in the final 15 minutes.

The Bulldogs scored three times in the initial period and four times each during the second and third periods. Bentley picked up 13 penalties during the contest, all of the minor two minute variety.

INSULATION

Cold and hard to heat houses?
Tired of high fuel bills?
Drafts on the floor?

We can now insulate walls and ceilings of brick homes without removing the brick. No more mismatched bricks, no more ugly mortar lines. Of course we also insulate frame and aluminum siding houses.

Franklin cagers nudged at buzzer

On paper the Garden City West-Livonia Franklin matchup Tuesday night figured to be about as exciting as watching the cactus plant grow, visiting your maiden aunt or dialing the weather.

Coming in with a 5-0 record compared to 0-4 for Franklin, West figured to put the game in the bag somewhere around the middle of the first quarter and let the crowd get home in plenty of time for the late news.

But Franklin proved that basketball games are played on hardwood courts, not paper, and gave an injury-plagued, foul-ridden Tiger squad all it wanted and more before falling 68-67 to keep both teams' records perfect.

The game was closer than the score indicates.

Sam Williams, the massive Franklin forward more noted for his exploits on the gridiron than for front-court finesse, stepped to the line with one tick left on the clock and the potential of handing West its first setback of the season.

Williams missed the first shot of a one-and-one situation, however, and the clock expired before the bouncing ball could be retrieved.

To West's credit, the Tigers were able to play over a couple key injuries.

Starting center Greg Susko was not expected to play and didn't. Terry Bradley sprained his ankle in practice this week and added another starter to the injured reserve list.

Fortunately for West, Dave Niles picked up the slack and pumped in 33 points. Jeff Summers, with 10, was the only other West player to hit double figures.

Dennis Wesley, with 21 points and Dan Pederson with 19, paced Franklin.

West's foul trouble stemmed from three players having three fouls at halftime. Two players eventually fouled out.

"The team really proved itself tonight. They proved they have moral fiber by coming back. I thought Franklin played spirited basketball," said West coach Chris Babler.

Patriot coach Bob Visser was more blunt in his assessment of the game.

"I felt we deserved to win," he said. "We have nothing to be ashamed about."

Franklin is now off for the holidays while West hosts Cherry Hill Friday in Tri-River action.

Rockets unload on Southgate cagers

Westland John Glenn, once again plagued by a cold opening quarter at the offensive end of the court, found the shooting range much better during the final 24 minutes to walk away with a 60-44 basketball triumph Tuesday over nonleague foe Southgate.

Rocket coach Gordon Davis attributed the victory, Glenn's third in six decisions, to a defense that was tough when it had to be and to the strength of his bench.

"I thought we played consistent defense, and that was the key," said Davis. "The defense kept us in the game until we started hitting later."

Two Rocket starters, Dan Diadiun and George Roberts, who eventually fouled out, both found themselves in early foul difficulties and spent much of the time safely sitting on the bench.

Enter the reserves, who had the opportunity to show Davis how they could perform under pressure, and the Rocket mentor was not disappointed.

"Dave Hutchison, Tom Jurewicz and Chris Babler all came off the bench and did a nice job," evaluated a pleased Davis. In fact, Davis went so far as to say that the play of the second line cagers was another key to victory.

Southgate jumped out to a 12-7 first quarter advantage and held on to a slim 24-23 intermission lead, but in the second half, it was all Rockets, as Glenn outscored its host 37-20 the final two periods to wrap up the convincing win.

Scott Wicker led all scorers with 16 points, his personal high early this season. No other Rocket ended up in double figures, as it was a balanced scoring thrust which propelled Glenn to the long end of the final score.

The Rockets, winners of its only league contest, travel to North Farmington tomorrow (Friday) in another Northwest Suburban League tussle which Davis anticipates will be a tough battle especially in view of the fact that the Raiders will hold the home court advantage.

Lathrup downs Spartans

By DOUG FUNKE

A much quicker, stronger Southfield-Lathrup quintet combined a sticky man-to-man defense with a hot offensive shooting night Tuesday to blast Livonia Stevenson in basketball action, 79-62.

The Chargers completely stifled Stevenson during the opening eight minutes, as the Spartans connected for only three field goals and a single free throw for seven points, while a run and shoot style of play netted Lathrup 20 points.

Stevenson coach George Van Wagoner switched from a zone to a man-to-man defense after the first quarter in an attempt to shut down the potent Chargers' offense, but by then, the damage had been done to an irreparable degree.

Lathrup continued its scoring rampage during the second period, besting the Spartans 19-13 to take a commanding 39-20 halftime advantage, a margin which never was seriously threatened.

Stevenson ran its offensive patterns much better during the second half and connected on field goal attempts, which had bounced off the rim much of the first half, to notch 42 points, a pair more than Lathrup, but the Chargers' big early spurt was insurmountable.

"They (Lathrup) handled the ball very well and shot very well too," assessed Van Wagoner. The statistics bear out Van Wagoner's observation, as the Chargers canned 30 of 62 field goal attempts and 19 of 23 from the charity stripe.

In spite of the loss, the Stevenson mentor also had some good things to say about his team's performance. "I thought we executed very well after the first quarter, but I guess it was just one of those nights," Van Wagoner said.

Lathrup was paced by Bill Phillips, a 6-6 center, who scored 27 points and blocked numerous Stevenson shots. Tom O'Rourke and Mark Johnson added 20 and 14 points respectively for the Chargers.

Rob Rose led the Spartan scorers with 16 points, while Dave Haberman chipped in 12.

The victory hiked Lathrup's record to a perfect 6-0 mark, while Stevenson slipped to an even 2-2 standing. The Spartans' next competition is tonight (Thursday) at Waterford in an Inter-Lakes League affair.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

One of the strangest things about the current bowling season is the lack of complaints about being asked to bowl on "end" alleys.

There was a time, not long ago, when tears and individuals shunned the end lanes. This was especially true in tournaments. But this criticism has faded, and now seldom is heard.

"In many of the houses where we bowl," Ann Setlock, a former bowling queen and member of the Ladies Major League, said, "the end lanes are the best—at least for scoring."

No one knows the answer, but it's just possible the modern finishes withstand the so-called drafts from the outer walls.

Whatever the cause, the complaints have stopped.

SCORING REALLY took a nose dive in the Wonderland Classic last week. For one of the few times this season there was no 700 series. Carey Reetz walked away with the scoring honors with a 683, and two veterans—Dick Preston and B.C. Nunnery—tied for the runner-up spot with a 648. The high team game was only 3105—which is unusual in the Classic.

WHEN IT COMES to unusual happenings, Jim Mijal will never forget the frown he drew from Lady Luck at Westland Bowl.

Bowling in the Tri-City League, he strung 10 strikes in a row and then left up "the bucket" on his eleventh ball. The bucket is the 2-4-5-8 and he had to settle for a 286 and a 693 series.

To make the showing all the more unusual, his team posted a 1040 with his big game, despite the fact a team member rolled a mere 140.

Another unusual happening occurred at Plaza Bowl in the Classic where each of the four girls—Marie Nadalny, Linda Fien, Winnie Bobek and Gerry Quaik—bowed 111.

A feat like this happens few times in a season.

THE BIG MAN at the Vinco League at Garden Lanes this week was Jerry Kundrat. He paced the squad with a 652 to leave his rivals far behind. Larry Coy landed the runner-up post with a 625 and Hank Peard finished third with 623.

The best shot of the night came when Ed Slominiski converted the 8-10 split.

THERE'S A NEW name on the honor roll of high scorers at Plymouth Bowl. She is Jan Malanick, who posted a 268 in the Ladies Classic.

This matched the 268 that was posted by Ann Terry in the women's junior house league at Merri-Bowl.

Mike Toth reached the height of frustration Thursday night in the West Side Jets league at Cloverlanes.

With 11 strikes on the board he took aim, but left up the No. 4 pin and had to settle for a 299 and a 674 series. He had opened with a 147 and followed with a 228 before his dream game.

BILL ENGSTROM bowled the highest triplicate of the season thus far with three games of 198 at Bel-Aire Lanes.

A new name popped up in the Classic when Ken Cummings came through with a 577 on games of 206, 247 and 224. Stan Wilkins was right behind with a 664, a count that enabled him to tie Jim Shelp for runner-up honors.

BILL TODD moved to the top of the honor roll at Cherry Hill Lanes when he bowled the first perfect game ever bowled in the house.

A 196 bowler, he opened with the 300 and followed with 190 and 194 for a 684 in the Cherry Hill Classic.

DELORES DOWHAN paced the field in the Livonia Ladies Classic when she posted a 507-105-612. In the individual games Doris Chapin won the first with 172-39-211; Lois Merri-man took the second with 201-31-232 and Madeline Donehue captured the third with 178-39-217.

FINDING THE RANGE, Mike Kane made a runaway of the race for top place in the senior house league at Westland with a 741 series that included games of 245, 242 and 254.

His nearest rival was Dave Poshkat with a 653, while Greg Nicora landed third with 648.

BILL MULL wound up as top man in a close battle with Walt Stoenard in the Garden Classic when he rolled a 659 to win by four pins.

In the Ladies Classic it was Pat Lisowski again. This time she posted a 620.

In the junior house league Bob Cavin took the honors with a 638 to beat Al Crosby by eight pins.

THE SENIOR CITIZENS did some record breaking at Plymouth Bowl.

In the Good Timers League Marge Munson set a new high for the loop with a 202 and Dorothy Hinstock rolled a high 517 series.

On the men's side it was Louis Cordes who set the pace with a 222 game.

THE WOMEN had a good week at Farmington Lanes where Jan Missle topped the Classic with a 268. In the Friday Noon circuit Donna O'Brian was high with 212.

1976 paving OK delayed

Final approval of necessity for the 1976 paving program in the City of Plymouth has been delayed until the Jan. 5 meeting of the city commission.

Monday night the commission polled itself informally for the benefit of residents attending the paving hearing. Each of the six commissioners present commented they would vote in favor of proceeding with hearings to pave the five streets—an improvement the commission feels is necessary.

Action wasn't taken Monday night because some residents of South Holbrook were concerned about the design of a cul-de-sac (dead-end street; impasse).

City Engineer Alan Gove met last night (Wednesday) with residents of S. Holbrook to discuss the possibility of changing the design of the cul-de-sac to avoid the need for the city to acquire property frontage of some residents living on the turn-around drive.

For its 1976 paving program, the city wants concrete paving with curb, gutters and storm sewers for: Davis Street from Farmer to the C&O tracks; Cherry from Dunn to W. Pearl; W. Pearl from the C&O tracks to Starkweather; E. Liberty from N. Mill to York; and S. Holbrook from Union to the south-end of Holbrook Street.

The total estimated cost of the project is $140,270 with property owners being assessed $18 per front foot and $9 per sideline foot.

Of the total cost, some 52.4 per cent ($72,460) will be paid by property owners and 47.6 per cent ($66,800) by the city. Residents have the option of paying cash for their assessment or spreading payments over a 10-year period with interest payments added. Interest cannot exceed nine per cent, but it is likely to be between six to 6½ per cent.

After the Jan. 5 necessity hearing, another public hearing will be held to establish the special assessment district after which bids will be taken and a contract awarded.

Joins council

Charles "Eddie" Olson (left), president of Olson Heating and Air Conditioning, Inc., 141 N. Mill, Plymouth, receives a membership certificate from Raymond E. Westlund Jr. Olson was one of 40 air conditioning and heating contractors selected nationwide to become a member of the Humid-Aire Dealer Advisory Council.

Gift for beauty

Mrs. Ruth Armstrong shows her appreciation to Sam Dibble (left) for the $500 check from the Colonial Kiwanis Club of Plymouth to the Tonquish Creek Manor. Standing at right are Mrs. Frances Yoakam, director of the Tonquish Creek staff, and Jim Case, Kiwanis Club president. The $500 will go towards the senior citizens' goal of establishing their own beauty shop in the Manor. The donation represents ongoing support of the Kiwanians for the residents in the Manor. Other efforts include supplying them with Christmas decorations and doing landscaping during the summer. (Staff photo)

The Stroller Santa's helpers

With a Santa Claus in every store or shopping center, and others at street intersections spreading the good will of the Yule tide, it is interesting to note that some of Santa's best helpers are not in the familiar red and white uniform that is symbolic of the Christmas season.

Down through the years The Stroller has seen many examples of this real Christmas spirit and, when done anonymously, it is one of the finest and richest traditions to behold.

Never can he forget in the days of his early youth when things were rather dark for his widowed Mother and five children. Money was scarce and not much thought could be given to Christmas gifts. We were just fortunate to have sufficient food to sustain us.

These conditions were bad enough, but at Christmas they seemed worse. It was almost to the point where we dreaded the coming of the day.

There was one Yuletide when mother took us aside and over the family dinner she tried to soothe us for what she thought would be a great disappointment on Christmas morning.

"YOU JUST HAVE to realize that we can't have what other folks have," she said. "But we can enjoy ourselves and get along if we just make the most of what we have. Somehow we'll get along."

You can imagine the joy in our little household on Christmas morning when mother opened the door to our back porch and let out a yell, "Santa has been here. Just look at this!"

And there on the porch was a large basket tied in red ribbon and it contained not only a turkey, but all that went with it. It was our entire Christmas dinner.

Where did it come from? We didn't know. There was a card attached, with a little note "Have a merry Christmas."

It was one of the finest Christmases our family ever had. Strangely, the same thing happened every year until we were grown.

And to this day, more than half a century later, The Stroller doesn't know the identity of Santa's helper.

Another of Santa's helpers in later years who spread the spirit of Christmas without being in uniform was the late Gar Wood, the millionaire speed-boat king who gave the entire area many a thrill in the famed Harmsworth races.

Gar made it a point, after taking care of the poor families in the Algona area, of filling his pockets with change on Christmas Eve and walking up and down the thoroughfare distributing coins to youngsters. He never returned home until he was "broke."

ANOTHER UNUSUAL Santa helper comes to mind and he often claims it was one of the best Christmases he ever enjoyed.

He is Joe Louis, the former heavyweight champion. When he was at the peak of his career Joe was constantly being pressured to endorse all sorts of gimmicks.

Back in 1937 when he won the title one of these agents came to him with an idea of a Joe Louis bank that could be given to children, presumably to get them to start saving their money.

Joe listened quietly. It was close to Christmas. Finally, he said,

"I don't want any money for approving the bank. But if you really want to do something give me about 500 of them free. And I'll take care of the kids."

The agent complied and sensed a great human interest story.

He was right. On Christmas morning Joe placed a half dollar in each bank and walked up and down Paradise Valley passing out banks to the kids and wishing them a Merry Christmas.

The Brown Bomber still claims it was one of his happiest Christmas Days.

So, you see, some of Santa's finest helpers are not in uniform.

Toasting new wine

Toasting a half barrel of 1975 Beaujolais Nouveau are (from left) Bill Martin and Joe Ganci of O'Donnell Importing, Chamberlin Restaurant president Gus Kokas and his son Jim, who is general manager. The young wine made its Detroit area premiere at a recent wine party at the Dearborn restaurant. This was the first time Beaujolais Nouveau was brought into the United States in a half barrel. Connoisseurs have been using the wine for years as a barometer for judging the entire Beaujolais crop.

Joyous cabaret theater with 'Godspell'

By JOAN METTE

While dinner-theater is all the rage in most of the country, it has never seemed to catch on in the Detroit area. Lately, thanks to some enterprising producers, the conviviality of food, drink and theater can be enjoyed here, too.

Newest entry is Schoolcraft College's Cabaret Theatre and its presentation of "Godspell." The musical is a joyous interpretation of the Gospel according to St. Matthew, told by a band of clowns, who sing, dance and mug their way through the parables.

Probably there are very few people who are still unfamiliar with "Godspell." Even to the uninitiated, to the most staid Christian, to the most persistent agnostic, it has to be seen as a play, like its gospel, about Love and Joy. And what's not to like about that?

As long as "Godspell" has a young, enthusiastic cast, such as the one at Schoolcraft, it is almost automatically assured of success. But Cabaret Theatre's success with the musical is a lot more than automatic.

Santaland fanciful

"Twinkeland," a fantasy world sparkling with sugar and spice and trimmed with candy delights, is open for the holiday season at Hudson's Downtown Detroit store.

All who are charmed by the magic of make-believe may be wide-eyed at the wonders of this confectionery paradise, located on Hudson's 12th floor. "Twinkeland" visitors will be welcomed during store hours through Dec. 24.

The 12th floor holiday attraction also includes Hudson's "For Children Only Shop," the "Sugar Plum Shop," and amusement rides for the youngsters.

Santa Claus himself reigns over this storybook realm from his giant sleigh parked at the end of the "Twinkeland" path in mounds of gleaming white snow. The jolly ol' elf and his North Pole helpers will greet children and take special note of their Christmas wishes.

A WINDING trail, leading visitors to Santa, twists and turns through a peppermint forest where candy is dug from an extraordinary mine, and sweet-tasting icicles hang from a crystal cave. Along the way, comic elves, animals and puppet characters are seen busily preparing sweet treats in a special candy kitchen, striking up holiday tunes on peppermint musical instruments and trimming a yule tree with lollipops.

The "Twinkeland" maze empties into a grand star-studded room of blue, where shimmering new snow seems to fall continuously. An old-fashioned carousel and a rocket ride for children fill the center of the room.

Giant Christmas trees, each decorated with a different theme, stand as holiday sentries along the walls. Youngsters will see a stuffed animal tree, ribbon tree, shell tree, and candy, space and harvest trees. The center of attraction is a State of the Union tree, decked with ornaments for each of the 50 states.

Nearby "Twinkeland" is the "Sugar Plum Shop," selling a variety of delicious Christmas goodies.

DIRECTOR LEWIS Kaplan says that he has tried to have the cast produce a "happening." And a "happening" it is, yet with a well-hearsed cast that knows what it's doing. The spontaneity comes from the fact the performers have fun.

To really work as a vehicle for telling the gospel, "Godspell" depends on the believability of Jesus. (The same might be said of Christianity.) Phil Shangraw is exactly right. He portrays an innocence and charm that is delightful. Still he has the power to convey the anger of Christ chasing the moneychangers.

His sweet, reedy voice, small yet penetrating, is exactly right for this Jesus, a man who is followed because he is lovable.

The best voice in the cast belongs to Jerry Westerman, who is particularly effective when he plays Judas. He does, however, seem to have difficulty keeping his breath when combining moving and singing.

Other noted performers are Rhonda Baccarossa, who does a mean vamp through the audience doing "Turn Back O Man." And then there's Julie Rotary, who has such an impish grin during the clowning and yet who is so touching in the song "On the Willows" preceding Christ's death.

"GODSPELL" IS a tale told by a band of clowns. It is this ensemble performance, the fun they convey, that makes the evening enjoyable. So here's a salute to the whole bunch—those before mentioned and to Charla Baird, Steve Doud, Sue Kruk, Dennis Saltarelli and Helen Slaven.

At Cabaret Theatre the play is the thing, but the food and drink doesn't hurt, either. Theatergoers have a feast of liters of white and rose wines, a board of bread and cheeses, fruit, and a quiche Lorraine to do any French restaurant proud. That's the basics, but for anyone who hungers and thirsts, extra food or drink can be ordered at a charge.

The show will continue through March with performances the second and third week-ends of each month. Contact Schoolcraft College for reservations.

612 In Memoriam

CLARA
We met by chance so long ago I hardly know the year. Our friend ship all this time I cherished and held near. One day I knew we'd have to part. Yet it never came to mind so soon I'd see the day. We talked of many things, troubles, laughter, and some tears. Your voice I had to hear. It's sound meant joy throughout these many years. And now it's gone. It won't return. It's gone so far away. No tears I cry. No ache I feel, will bring it back to stay. Just yesterday I touched your hand. I heard your voice so low. I wish I'd stayed and talked awhile. Now, if only I could tell you so, but you will always be close by. My prayers will ever keep you near. Friendship is forever, and forever I shall hold your memory dear. Edie. 479-3880

DEAR READERS,

I have opened a most unusual gift shop, Gust's Boutique, at the SOMERSET INN HOTEL. I design most of the jewelry. I also have on display my own bronze work. They are original, only one of each in the world. Everyone says it is different I agree. They also say it is great work and again I agree. What do you think? Of course, if you come out and look at them, we will be happy to have an opinion. This is an invitation!

643-8257
Sincerely
Gust
